BUTE ISLAND (in gaelic BOID), which gives name to the shire below, between the Frith of Clyde and Loch Fyne, SW. Scotland, is separated from Argyll by a narrow strait called the Kyles of Bute. Length NNW. and SSE. 16 m.; av. breadth 3, greatest breadth 4; circuit 40 m. by coast, which is rocky, and has along it Rothesay the capital and its castle (the dukedom of which belongs to the Prince of Wales) on that bay, Beganany point, Kilcattan and Glencallum bays opposite the Cumbræes, Garrock Head at the S. corner, Stravannan bay, Scalpsie bay near Ardsalpsie pt., St. Ninian's opposite Inch Marnoch, Ellerick bay and McNeill's isld. Buttock pt. at the N. corner or elbow of the Kyle, Ardmaleesh pt. Kames bay and Port Bannatyne. Pop. 7878 + 93; houses 1694; for poor 101l. It consists of 2 pars. containing about 30,000 acres chiefly belonging to the Marq. of Bute, barren and rugged to the N. where slate and greenstone with trap are found, the highest point being Kames hill 875 ft.—but having a middling soil on a red sandstone and limestone bottom at the S. the highest point of which is Suidhe Chatain 520 ft.; micaceous iron ore, traces of coal, pink, brown, and other spars, are found. The system and extent of cultivation here, as in Arran, has very much improved; woodland about 1000 acres. In the lakes, the largest of which are Fad and Ascoy, perch, trout, and pike are caught, and salmon in the streams; at Boyany is a mineral water. The chief remains are Rothesay castle, the favourite seat of the Stuart kings, and burnt 1685 by the Earl of Argyll; Kilmarie castle, which belonged to the Jamiesons; Kames cast. the old seat of the Bannatyne; Spence's castle, St. Blaine's chapel near the devil's caldron; Dungyle, a danish fort; with ruins of other forts and tumuli, left by the Northmen, who held possession here for many centuries before it came under the power of the Scottish kings. By early writers the people were called Brandini or Brandana.

BUTESHIRE, between Ayr. and Argyll in SW. Scotland, consists of the islds. of Bute, Gt. and Lit. Cumbræe, Inch Marnoch in one group; and Arran, Lamlash, and Pladda, in another. Extent 150,000 (?) acres; of which Arran 115,000, Bute 30,000, Cumbræes etc. 5000, 1-5th is cultivated and 1-3rd is unprofitable. It contains 15,740 + 154 persons, of whom 5789 are in Rothesay burgh,—8586 females, 7191 under 20 years of age, 10,718 county born,—1648 or 11.6 per cent. live by commerce, trade, manufact., 1419 or 9 per cent. by agricult. (612 being farmers and graziers), 159 educated professions, 511 are independent, 2391 labourers and servants, besides others; 8067 houses, exclusive of 112 empty and building; 5 parishes, besides 2 quoad sacra, and Lit. Cumbræe which belongs to W. Kilbride, Ayr.; 1 royal and parl. burgh, (1 being assessed) 1567l. of which 1814l. for 407 poor on roll, 88l. for 68 casual poor. Par. and other schools about 40, attended by 2300 child; av. no. of offenders ('86-46) 13,—but only 2 in '48. The only manufacture is cotton which employs 357 persons chiefly at Rothesay, besides 148 returned as spinners and weavers; in '47 (a bad year) 655 hands were in the cotton factories. The fisheries at Rothesay in 1840, employed 786 persons and 263 boats, and 17,119 barrels of herrings were cured. Lights are shown on Lit. Cumbræe and Pladda islds. The climate, though moist, is very mild and favourable to delicate persons. Under the auspices of the Marquis of Bute and the Duke of Hamilton, these islands have made rapid progress; the soil, formerly neglected for the fisheries or ruined by one course of crops, is drained and cultivated upon the best systems of husbandry, and a farmers' society has been established. Leases run 19 yrs.; lands are inclosed, and the farm buildings neat and comfortable. Some of the families and seats are Marquis of Bute (who owns nearly the whole of that island) Mount Stewart, Hamilton of Kames, McKinley of Braes, Millar of Millport, Thom of Ascoy.

Cambretum of the Romans, is somewhere near WOODBRIDGE, Suffolk.

Cambria of the Romans, is Wales, and the border lands beyond R. Severn,—so called from the Cimbri, Cymri, etc.—and constituted Britannia Secunda which Ostorius Scapula conquered, including the tribes of the Ordovices (N. Wales and Salop), Silures (SE. Wales, Herefd. Monmo'), Demetæ (SW. Wales). The Saxons called them 'Brit-wealas' and other names, as they called the Cimbri settled in Deron etc. the 'Corn-wealas,'—both from Gael or Gaul (another name of the Cimbri) with the g softened down.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE (46-7, 51-2, 64-5) an inland county, E. England, the seat of the British Cenomanni, (a tribe of the Iceni), part of the roman Flavia Caesariensis, and of the saxon E. Anglia and Mercia, and called Grantabrigesire in 'Domesdy.' is traversed by the E. Count. rail. (30½ m.) watered by R. Cam (34 m.), Rere (30 m.), and Nen (34 m.), and bordered by Norf. (NE.), Suffk. (SE.), Essex, and Herts. (S.), Beds. and Hunts. (SW.), Nhamptn. (NW.), and Lincoln. (N.). Extent from below Gt. Chesterford to Tydd St. Mary, 50 m., greatest breadth 25, av. breadth 16½ m.; circuit about 200 m.; relative size 148-10,000ths. It contains 857 sq. m., or 548,480 acres (536,313 by addition of pars.), of which 242,830 belong to the Isle of Ely, above 500,000 are arable, meadow, and pasture, and about one-third fenny; 164,459 + 2050 persons, of whom 41,363 are in Cambridge, Wisbeach, Whittlesea, Ely, March, Chatteris, and Soham,—82,848 are females, 78,616 under 20 yrs. of age, 136,337 country-born,—14,744 or 8·9 per cent. live by trade, manufact. etc., 22,918 by agricult. (yr. 1846-7) for 9 unions 81,334*l.* on 922,590*l.*, or 1*s.* 9*d.* in the £ (wheat being 59*s.*). Cases relieved 21,314 (out-door 17,061) in estimated pop. of 186,538. Total charities 16,163*l.* of which 2611*l.* for schools, and education; savings bks. ('49) 4, with 182,112*l.* from 5421 depositors; in yr. '38-9, 1188 m. of road (235 m. being turnpike) were maintained for 2089*l.* In '46-7, out of 171 pars. 165 had 283 church schools, supported by 6565*l.* with 13,318 children attending, and 362 paid teachers (53 being monitors), whose salaries were 4898*l.*, and who had 117 teachers' houses: out of these 4 were free schools, and 68 Sunday sch. (exclusively, with 498 teachers and 8484 child.); and 105 in union with the National Soc. had 8458 children, and total grants of 2767*l.* Offenders in '48, 244 (or 262, av. of 5 yrs.) of whom 185 were convicted, 82 were females, 0 under 15 years of age, 81 could not read or write. Following the Sup. Registry districts of '45 (total pop. 169,638 + 2130) the 'births' were 6278*l.* of whom 3003 were females, 355 or 7 per cent. illegit.; 'deaths' 3685 or 1 in 46, the av. being 46; 'marriages' 1459 (at church 1352) of which 1471 persons, or 48·8 per cent. signed with marks. The chalk hills, which belong to the Chiltern range, run across the S. corner, from Royston to Newmarket heath, the highest point being Gogmagog, near Cambridge; clunch, of which Ely cathedral is partly built, appears about Burwell; a strip of blue clay or gault, with iron sand, passes down the basin of the Cam to Ely, where it rises into a moderate swell, on which the city stands, and is there used for white bricks and earthenware; another strip of Portland oolite lies between this one and the Bedford cuts. All the rest, indeed from Cambridge northwards, is one dead flat of fenny land, forming the S. part of the Gt. Bedford Level intersected by numberless canals and ditches (partly navigable) for draining, with steam-engines and windmills for lifting the water, and osier beds and lines of dwarf willows to complete the prospect. Wheat, beans, turnips, and sainfoin are grown on the uplands, where the soil is a mixture of chalk, clay, loam, gravel, while the rich, black, spongy soil of the fens, when once reclaimed, is usually sown with cole seed, to be eaten off by sheep, and then, besides turf for fuel, produces very heavy crops of wheat, barley, oats (which was the prevailing corn before the land was improved), potatoes, and hay. Hemp and flax are raised about Wisbeach, Upwell, etc., and saffron is grown at Cherry Hinton, which takes its name from that fruit having been grown there once. The dairy lands in the middle are famous for Cambridge butter; and fine cream cheese is made at Cottenham and Soham. Great numbers of cart-horses, cattle, pigeons, and long-wooled sheep are bred in the fens, which abound with wild fowl; short-wooled sheep are pastured on the heaths to the SE. The farms are mostly small and held at will, but some at 4 or 5 yrs. lease; farm buildings middling. The only manufactures are baskets and matting from reeds. Native plants are very numerous, among which are varieties of toadflax, chickweed, maidenhair, bellflower, carex, sunflower, clematis (at Cherry Hinton), heath, ladies' bed-straw, gentian (Ch. Hinton), hyssop, vetch, flax (Ch. Hinton), mint, dutch myrtle (Ely fens) water-lily, orchis, marjoram, saxifrage, crowfoot, wood or dyers' weed (Ch. Hinton), sweet briar (Gogmagog hills), thyme, trefoil, valerian, speedwell, periwinkle; the neighbourhood of Cherry Hinton, Cambridge, Gamlingay, Madingley, Gogmagog, being places where they most abound. Principal seats, etc. are: Duke of Rutland Chesley Ph., Earl Hardwicke Wimpole Hall, E. Delawarr, Bowne Ho., E. Kilmorrey Waresley Ph., Lord Godolphin Gogmagog Hill, Cotton, Bt., Madingley Ph. Watson, Bt. Wrattling Ph. Mrs. Pigott of Abington Ha., Adeane of Babraham, Jenyns of Bottisham, Osborne of Branches Ph., Tharpe of Chippingham Ph., Newton of Croxton Ph., Mrs. Gardner of Fordham Ab., Townley of Fulbourne Ho., Quinton of Hailey Ph., Bateson of Horseheath Lo. Knight of Milton, Mrs. Cheere of Papworth, Huddleston of Sawston Ha. Dayrell, of Steady Camps Ph. Eaton of Stetchworth Ho., Allix of Swaffham. The Cambr. hounds are kennelled at Stratton Beds.—The Icknield St. went across from Newmarket to Royston, where the Ermine St. crossed to Godmanchester; remains of the Via Devana are seen between Balham and Cambridge, where another way crossed from Ely into Beds.; the Soham causeway was part of the great road through the fens into Lincoln. Traces of british earthworks are found at the Devil's Ditch, near Newmarket racecourse, which was the boundary of E. Anglia and Mercia,—and at Fleam Dyke not far from it, near Balham; and coins, urns, and other roman antiques have been turned up at Arbury, near Cambridge (the only station, see below), at Vandlebury camp on Gogmagog hill (so called from the Vandals whom Probus brought over), Chatteris, Ely, March, Soham, Wilney, and other places. Of the 36 religious houses, including 4 abbeys and 11 priories, besides 9 hospitals, founded here, there are remains of Thorney and Denny abbeys, and Icknham and Barham priories. Downham was an old seat of the bishops. Specimens of saxon or norman styles are to be seen at Ely Cathedral, Duxford, Ickleton, Stuntney, many other churches having norman doorways; of later styles at Ely, especially the beautiful Lady Chapel,—at Sutton, a very regular example, the Sepulchre church and the glorious chapel of King's Coll. Cambridge, and Swaffham.—No remains are found of 9 castles, except the gate of that at Cambridge; Catledge or Kirtling hall is an ancient seat of the Norths; Balham was the residence of Sutton, who bought the old seat of the De Veres at Castle camps to give to the Charter House,—Stuntney of Cromwell before he got into parl.; and at Spinney his son Richard received Ch. II. after the Restoration. At the Conquest the l. of Ely became remarkable for the 8 yrs. defence made by Hereward and others against William; it was afterwards fortified by Hen. III.'s rebellious barons, and by Cromwell against Ch. I.—Roads are: 1. Cambridge to Hauxton 4 m., Melborne 10, Royston 13, thence to Baldock 23, or mostly flint and rough cast, containing fragments of older buildings. The cathedral (lately re-tored) which at first was Ethelbert's house, was burnt by the Danes 1011, reb. 1023 by Canute, again reb. after another fire by Abp. Lanfranc 1073-1080; the choir being taken down was reb. under the name of the "glorious choir" by prior Conrade 1114, and after a fire of 1174 was finally reb. with its transept 1174 by Will. de Soissons; the present nave and its transept 1379-1420. It is a double cross like that of Rochester, the length being 514 ft., of which choir is 180, and 71 high; E. transept 154 ft. through, the W. 124; and the styles are specimens of all the early norm. to latest eng. The beautiful central Bell-Harry tower is 235 ft. high, the Oxford and Arundel towers at W. end 130; St. Andrew's and Anselm's tower at E. end —. In the nave (214 ft. by 94, and 80 high) are Prior Goldstone's beautiful later eng. porch (1517) and the great W. window, with mon. of Gibbons the organist, Casaubon, Rooke, and others; the NW. transept near the cloisters, called the 'Martyrdom,' where Æ Becket was murdered, had a fine painted window, much injured by the puritans 1641; close to it is the Lady, or Dean's, chapel, b. by Goldstone, with mon. of Wotton and other deans; in the SW. transept is St. Michael's chapel, b. by Abp. Sudbury, with mon. of duke of Clarence, Langton, etc., and the porch of the Black Prince's chantry; the decorated screen dividing the nave and choir was the work of Prior de Estria; in the choir, which is chiefly transition norman and early eng., are Q. Edith's tomb; in NE. transept Trinity chapel, and its pavement, on which stood the gold shrine containing the relics of Æ Becket, which on the jubilees drew 100,000 persons with their offerings, and where are mon. of Hen. IV. and his queen, the Black Prince, Chicheley, Bouchier, and other prelates; and at the extremity is Æ Becket's Crown (norman and pointed) with mon. of Cards. Pole and Chatillon, and the ancient chair in which the abp. is enthroned. Within the precincts are the archbp.'s palace (now a workshop), the almonry or King's school close to Green Court gate, the waterhouse on the wall; baptistry with its norman door, prior's chapel or library with an old copy of Dunstan's charter, and an inlaid table; Prior's gateway covered with ivy; the treasury where records are kept, with its unique norman staircase in good condition; the cloisters (134 ft. square) restored by Prebendary Peel, with 683 shields running round; the chapter-house (on N. side) 92 ft. by 37, early and later eng., in which Hen. II. did penance 1172. The crypt, or undercroft, where the Walloons had service in French, contains the Virgin and other chapels in norman and later styles, with many tombs. C. Abbey in which the apostle of England was buried 605, was dedicated to him by Dunstan 978, was mired and had a mint and large possessions; part of the walls, the beautiful N. gate in decorated style, and the ruins of St. Pancras remain; St. Ethelbert's tower (which covered his grave) was suffered to fall down 1822. Hen. VIII. turned it into a palace for himself, and Eliz. kept her birthday here 1578; Jas. I. gave it to the Cecils, from whom it came to the Watsons, who entertained Chas. I. on his marriage with Henrietta Maria, at this place 1625, and received Chas. II. at the Restoration 1660. St. Augustine's missionary college founded on the abbey site by H. Hope, Esq. M. P. (who restored the old gate), and b. by Butterfield 1847-9, is a quadrangle, including a chapel, hall, library, cloisters, corridor, etc. in the monastic style. Remains are left of St. Lawrence's hosp. wall with his gridiron upon it; of blackfriars' house (b. 1217) now a baptist and unitarian chapel, and the wall of St. James's leper hosp.; but those of St. Gregory's priory, founded by Lanfranc 1084, the porch of which is at Beachley, are removed. Near Oatenhill on Watling St., where the gallows stood, was St. Sepulchre's nunnery (found. 1100 by Anselm), of which there are traces, and to which the impostor Eliz. Barton the 'holy maid' belonged. The gray friars who came over 1224 had their oldest house (part of the walls are left), and the templars a preceptory, here. In Castle St. is the keep of the Conqueror's castle. 'Chancer's Inn' stood in Mercery Lane. The city walls, about 1½ m. in circuit, 20 ft. high, still have left one of the 8 posterns, four of the 21 turrets, and one out of 6 gates, viz. Westgate and its towers (reb. by Abp. Sudbury, Rich. II.'s time) on the London road, now used as a gaol. On the S. between Worthgate, where stood a roman arch (removed to Lee Priory), and Riding Gate, through which Watling St. passed, is the Dame John, or Dungehill, supposed to be the site of a danish work, or a corruption of donjon—and 1790 laid out and planted for public use by Ald. Simmons, with a terrace 1840 ft. by 15. Mrs. Behn (b. 1612), Gostling (b. 1696), and Somner (b. 1606) the antiquaries, Dr. Linacre (1460), Dean Nevile, and Boyle (b. 1566) the great earl of Cork, were natives. It publishes the "C. Journal," "Kentish Gaz." "Kent. Herald," and "Kent. Observer" newspapers; and gives title of viciet to the Mannors-Suttons. Roman ways went to Dover, Lympne, Richboro', Reculver, as well as London. The abp.'s PROVINCE includes the dioceses of St. Asaph, Bangor, Bath and Wells, Canterbury, Chichester, St. David's, Ely, Exeter, Gloucester and Bristol, Hereford, Lichfield, Lincoln, Llandaff, London, Norwich, Oxford, Peterboro', Rochester, Salisbury, Winchester, and Worcester,—a jurisdiction which comprises all England except 6 northern counties. He is first peer of the realm next to the royal family, and places the crown on the sovereign's head at the coronation; seats at Lambeth and Addington park, patr. of 149 livings, and income 15,000*l.* Among the prelates were Lanfranc, Anselm, Æ Becket, Baldwin, Card. Langton, Card. Kilwarby, T. Bredwardine, Chicheley, Card. Kemp, Card. Bouchier, Warham, Crammer, Card. Pole, Parker, Grindall, Bancroft, Abbott, Laud, Juxon, Sheldon, Sancroft, Tillotson, Tenison, Wake, Secker, Sutton, Howley. C. DIOCESE, extending over a large part of Kent, includes the archdeacons of Canterbury and Maidstone, or 308 benefices in 14 deaneries in all; chapter, etc. consists of a dean, 2 archdeacons, 9 canons, 6 minor canons, 6 preachers—and have the patr. of 83 livings. *C. CARDIGANSHIRE (40-1, 56-60) a seaside county of S. Wales, on Cardigan bay, between Ra. Dovy and Teifi, the seat of the Demeta in Britannia Secunda of the Romans, who had a station at Loventium (Llanio), the Cardigion, or 'Cardig's country' of the Welsh, and Ceredica of old writers, is watered by several streams, and bordered by Merion (N.), Montgomery (NE.), Radnor (E.), Brecon (SE.), Carmarthen (S.), the sea (W.). Extent, from Newcastle-Emlyn to a point below Machynlleth 44 m., greatest breadth 21, av. ditto 14; relative size 117-10,000ths; circuit about 150 m., of which 45 is coast, having along it the harbours and watering-places of Cardigan, Aberaeron near New Quay head, Aberystwith, and Aberdovey. It contains 675 sq. m. or 432,000 acres (590 sq. m. or 377,600 acres by some accounts), about one half being waste; 68,766 + 898 persons of whom 12,496 are in Aberystwith, Cardigan, Penbryn, Llanwenog, and Lampeter,—86,551 are females, 32,464 under 20 yrs. of age, 63,650 county-born,—5657, or 8.2 per cent., live by trade, manufact., etc., 8996, or 13.1 per cent., by agricul. (3467 being farmers and graziers), 356 educated professions, 2193 are independent, 16,649 labourers and servants (774 being miners), etc.; 15,123 houses, besides 918 empty and building; 6 hundreds (formerly 3 cantrefi or 8 cwmwd.,—and later 4 cantrefi or 10 cwmwd.)—Geneur Glyn (N.), Upper and Lower Ilar (centre), Moyddya (S.), Penarth (SE.), Troeddyr (S. and SW.); 65 parishes; 4 mkt. towns,—Cardigan, the county and assize town, etc. (as below), Aberystwith where the gr. sessions are sometimes held, Lampeter where Easter sessions are held, Tregaron,—these four being also, with Aberaeron, poor law Unions,—and the first three with the same, New County Courts; returns two members to parl., 1 for county (elect. 2312), 1 for Cardigan (place of election for both), and the contributory boroughs of Aberystwith, Lampeter, and Adpar as below, all being polling places; is in Welsh circuit and Home military district; is governed by a lord lieut. high sheriff, and about 45 magistrates; and constitutes, with parts from adjoining counties, an archdeaconry, containing two deaneries, in diocese of St. David's, province of Canterbury. Real prop. (1815) 145,933*l.* ('43) 205,328*l.*—of which 9190*l.* on mines; ditto rentals, 118,759*l.* or 5*s.* 8*d.* per acre (when wheat was 77*s.*), and 159,949*l.* or 7*s.* 5*d.* per acre (wheat 55*s.*). County income ('48) 4506*l.*, of which 1877*l.* from co. rate (on a val. of 180,151*l.* made 1840), 1205*l.* from police r. Poor r. (yr. 1846-7) for 6 unions, 18,030*l.* on 167,386*l.*, or 2*s.* 2*d.* in the £ (wheat being 59*s.*)—cases relieved 6705 (out-door 6358) in estimated pop. of 77,909. Total charities 871*l.*, of which 306*l.* for schools and education; savings bk. (49) 1, with 81,093*l.* from 963 depositors; in yr. '88-9, 838 m. of road (137 m. being turnpike) were maintained for 2642*l.* In '46-7, out of 82 para. 61 had 66 church schools, supported by 1350*l.* with 4396 child. attending, and 47 paid teachers (6 being monitors), whose salaries were 1091*l.*, and who had 11 teachers' houses; out of these 37 were free schools, and 6 sund. sch. (exclusively,—with 251 teachers and 2889 child.); and 18 in union with the National Soc. had 1086 child., and total grants of 632*l.* Offenders in '48, 25 (or 81 av. of 5 yrs.), of whom 22 were convicted, 3 were females, 0 under 15 yrs. of age, 6 could not read or write. For births, deaths, etc., see S. Wales. The Aeron divides the county into 'Upper,' lying to the N. and E., which is uniformly hilly or mountainous, —and 'Lower' to the SW., which is flatter; the shore being flat and sandy. Plinlimmon on the Montgomery. border is 2463 ft. high; Tregaron Down 1747, whence the Cors Goch bog extends 5 m. along the Teifi; other heights are Talsarn 1143, and Capel Cynon 1046. Llyn Teifi, at the head of that river in some of the highest ground, is the largest lake; near it are Llynns Gynon, Egnant, Riddon Vawr, and others. Shale and slate (used for roofs, and floors) with some gray mountain stone, form the substratum; having a clay and peat surface in the uplands, which are bare and uninclosed, but good mould by the rivers in valleys,—some of which, as the Teifi, Ystwith, Aeron, and others, are well cultivated. Chief crops are barley and black oats—of which the bread is made,—with wheat, rye, peas, beans, potatoes, and a few turnips. Limestone is brought all the way from Pembroke, and much seaweed found on the shore. Agriculture is backward,—the ploughs, harrows, etc. being very clumsy. Farms run to about 150 acres, and farm-buildings are slowly improving, but the cottages are miserable. Hogs are reared, and butter made for the market,—the cattle being a small but hardy black breed; it is noted for the small welsh mutton, with hind quarters weighing only 8 or 10 lb., and a fleece of about 2 lb. Besides the native trees,—oak, ash, and alder,—large plantations of larch have been made in some parts; stockings and flannels are manufactured (47 persons were employed in the woollen factories 1847), and hats for exportation to the rest of Wales. Trout and eels are caught in the lakes, herrings alongshore, and sewin (a small choice fish) and salmon at the Cennarth falls in the Teifi, where the ancient corw, or coracle boats, weighing only 40 to 50 lb., are still used. The beaver, noticed in Howel Dha's code, and by Giraldus, has been long extinct. Euphorbia peplus sea sponge, and statice armeria sea gillyflower, are found near Aberystwith. Gray mountain stone is quarried for buildings, tombs, rollers, roads, at Llanwenog, Penbryn, Aberystwith; slate at Ynis Hir. Few of the mines which were worked by the Mines Royal and other companies, from 1563, and were very productive, are now in operation; they employ 774 persons, of whom 645 were lead miners, chiefly at Cwm Ystwith. Quartz, black jack or zinc, and silver, were found; the lead yielding from 85 to 40 oz. of silver to the ton; Llanfair mine gave as much as 100 oz. Cwm Symlog was that which brought Sir H. Myddleton his large fortune; Bushel, in Ch. 1.'s time, coined the produce of his mines at Aberystwith, and the Pryses had a rich one at Egaigr Hir, discovered 1690. Principal rivers are, Teifi (Tarobius of Ptolemy, navigable to Llechryd, where were some tinplate works), Ystwith (anc. Stuccia), Rheidol which is joined by the Mynach at the Devil's Bridge, Dovey, Clarrach, Leri, Towy (only the head of it), Gwyrail, Arth, Aeron, Camddwr. Of the antiquities there are, druidical,—at Yspty Cynvyn, Carrog near Llanllwchaïr, Alltgoch near Lampeter, etc.; roman—at Llanio (anc. Loventium) on the Sarn Helen or Leon, i.e. the 'Legion way,' which went thence to Penallt and Carnarvon; british—at Llandysilio-Gogo, Llanvihangel Penbryn, Blaenorth, Lampeter, Llanvihangel Istrad, Kellan, Mynydd-Trichrûg. Of five religious houses there are remains at Ystrad flur, or Strata florida, on the roman way; at Llandwibrefi St. David held the synod for suppressing the Pelagian heresy. Castle ruins—at Aberystwith, Cardigan, Castel Gwalter, Ystrad Meirig, and traces at other places (see CASTEL). The chief families and seats are Pryse-Loveden, M. P. of Gogerthun, Powell, M. P. of Nanteos, Vaughan of Crosswood, Davies of Peterwell, Lloyd of Allt yr Odyr, Brigstoke of Blaenham, Lloyd of Coedmore, Lloyd of Mabus, Hoghton of Hafod (which belonged to Mr. Johnes), Gwynne of Tyghlyn, Lewis of Llanerchayron, Jones of Llanina. Moel Ifor was an old seat of the Gwyns. H. Llwyd, the great antiquary, was born at Glanfraed; Dafydd ab Gwilym, the bard, at Llanbadarn fawr. At Lampeter is St. David's college for clerical students, and off Aberystwith a great bank marks the Gwaedol hund, which was swallowed by the sea. Under native rule this county was part of the kingdom of Dinevor; the Danes harassed it 987 and 1071; in 1092 the Normans first overran it, but were driven out by Cadwgan 1097. Hen. I. granted it to the Strongbows, and Hen. II. restored it to prince Rhys; Llewelyn ap Iorwerth took it 1215, and on the overthrow of Llewelyn ap Gruffydd, Edw. I. joined it to England 1284. Roads: 1. Cardigan to Blaenporth 6 m. New Inn 11, Llanarth 18, Aberaeron 22, Llanrystid 29, Aberystwith 37, Aberdovey 47; or to Machynlleth 52. 2. Cardigan up the Teifi to Newcastle Emlyn 9, New Inn (on the Cletwr) 17, Lampeter 26 (thence to Llandoverey 16), Tregaron 35, Devil's Bridge thence to Rhayadr 16) 47, Machynlleth 60; or by Lampeter to Aberaeron 39; or by it to Llanrystid 40, and thence to Aberystwith 48.

* P. M. CARDIGAN par. (58) Troedynaur hund. S. Cardigan. 239 m. from London, the county, assizes, and (Epiphany) sessions town, and a port and polling place, at R. Teifi's mouth, and called Aberteifi by the Welsh, has the remains of a castle b. about 1090 by the norman barons, which after several changes, in which it was taken by the welsh princes (who here held Eisteddfodau) 1107, and 1176, was finally taken by the English 1240, settled upon Catherine of Arragon by Hen. VII., garrisoned for Ch. I. by Girard, and stormed by the parliament general Laugharne 1654;—is a boro', incorporated by Edw. I., and the head of a parl. district, which includes Atpar, Lampeter, and Aberystwith, and returns one member, its own limits comprising the par. or old boro' with Bridgend and Abbey, in St. Dogmel's par. Pembroke.—total no. of electors 754 (104. houses 2410), and chief influence with Powel of Nanteos and Pryse Loveden of Gogerthan; and under the new act is governed by a mayor, 4 ald., 12 council., with the style of "mayor, com. council, and burgesses of the town and boro' of C.," and a revenue of—L. I., 1138, made it a separate bishopric; was again destroyed by the Danes 875, and revived by Will. Rufus, who b. the castle 1092; held by David of Scotland from 1135 to 1153, after which it was yielded to England, again burnt 1292, besieged by Bruce without success 1315, and as the key to Scotland, was the scene of most border events down to 1645, when it was taken for parl. by Gen. Lesley, and a century later occupied by the Pretender;—has returned two members from the time of Edw. I., the bounds under the Reform act, including the tnsheps. of Abbey, Castle, Fisher, Scotch, and English streets within the liberties which constitute the old boro,' and those of Rickerate, Botchergate, and part of Caldewgate,—which, along with Cummersdale, Botcherly, Briscoe, belonging to the city, are without the liberties,—no. of electors being 1067 (of 10L houses 3754); was first chartered by Rich. I., and by the act of 1835 is divided into 5 wards, governed by a mayor, 10 ald., 30 council, with the style of "may. ald. bailiffs, and citix. of city of C.," and a revenue of 3491L. Acres of boro' 6740, of which 4080 in St. Mary's; pop. of city 28,012 + 801,—of boro' 20,815, in the manufact. of cotton, gingham, checks, hats, whips, hooks, and in calico-printing, the salmon fisheries, and coasting-trade. Houses 8516, many well built of stone,—with the cathedral, 12 churches and chapels; castle and barracks; court house (coet 100,000L), for Easter and Midsum. assizes, formerly the citadel, and county gaol on site of black-friary, both by Smirke; old town and moot halls near the mkt. cross (1682); old gaol, assembly-rooms, theatre; newsroom and library by Rickman, who also built the new churches; academy of arts, mechanics' institute, 3 banks, savings bank (91,847L from 3447 depositors), 8 guilds, gasworks, factories, dye-works, foundries, breweries; Hen. VIII.'s gram. school, in which Bp. Thomas, and Dean Carlisle, a native and arabic scholar, were educated; girls' school (37L); Freeman's almshouses, St. Patrick's school, county infirmary, house of recovery, or fever hosp.; dispensary, in which a child was born 1788 without a brain, and lived 6 days; Harrowby Hill and St. Mary's and Union poor-houses; 5-arched bridge over the Eden (70,000L), by Smirke, each arch being 65 ft. span; 2 small bridges on the Caldew, one on the Peteril. Assd. taxes 3798L; poor r. 2347L on 27,004L; real prop. 66,441L, of which 8909L on canal; charities 122L. Livings are: St. Mary Cur. (Carl.) val. 79L, patr. Dean and Chap.,—church, is part of Cathedral nave; St. Cuthbert Cur. 150L, Dean and Chap.,—ch. b. 1778 on site of a very old one, with mon. of Dean Carlisle; Holy Trinity Caldewgate Cur. 86L, Incumbent of St. Mary's; Christ Church Cur.

150L, Incumbent of St. Cuthbert's. The Cathedral, found. as a priory, of which the gateway remains, by Walter the Norman, and endowed by Hen. I. 1011, is cruciform, with the loss of the W. half of the nave, which was pulled down in the civil war, as were the chapterhouse and cloisters; what is left is used as a church, and has the thick columns and round arches of the norman style; the choir is early and decorated eng., and contains an E. window 48 ft. by 80, which Rickman thinks exceeds in beauty the W. window of York,—also a fine brass of Bp. Robinson (1616), a native, with mon. of Bps. Barrow, Bell (triple canopied brass 1496), Henry,—and of Edw. Law, Paley, and Anderson the Cumberland poet. Size of choir 137 ft. by 71, and 75 ft. high; transept 124 by 28; embattled tower 180 ft. high. Within the precincts are Priest Senhouse's Deanery (1507), with emblazoned oak ceiling; the fratriy, or refectory, now the chapter-house, where Edw. I. held a parl. on his return from Scotland (1307) with stone confessional chair. Within the castle, which has been restored, and like the cathedral forms one of the most conspicuous objects here (for which it was used as a beacon in the forays), are the old keep or armory built by Rufus, and the barracks; the tower where Mary Q. of Scots was confined is pulled down. In 1546, Scott of Buccleugh rescued 'Kinnmont Willie' from this fortress, as told in the 'Border Minstrelsy.' The site of St. Nicholas's leper hosp. which was given to the chapter, is now crossed by the Newcastle rail., but part of the town walls, supposed to have been first built by the Romans, and restored by K. David, remain. Roman coins, altars, inscriptions, brass incense vases, etc. have been found; and roads went to Penrith and Lancaster, to Old Carlisle and Ellenborough, and to Longtown. An earthquake which reached to Newcastle and Glasgow was felt here 1786. It is considered healthy, and the "Carlisle Tables" in use at many life assurance offices, published by Milne, and founded on the rate of mortality given by Dr. Heysham, 1779-87, are nearer the average, and therefore more equitable, than any others. The 'C. harriers' hunt round here; it supports the 'C. Journal,' and 'C. Patriot' newspapers, and gives title of Earl to the Howards of Naworth. Cooly Castle, H. Howard, Esq.; Kickerby, Capt. Graham. A rail. 70 m. long joins the place to Lancaster, in conjunction with the Caledonian rail.; another of 63 m. joins it to Newcastle, in conjunction with a third one of 28 m. to Maryport, etc.; the ship canal made 1819, runs from the basin 10½ m. to Bowness, on Solway Frith (whence a steamer plies to Liverpool), rising 70 ft. with 9 locks, and admitting small craft. In 1846, 43 sal. of 2942 tons (14 being above 50 t. each), and 8 steamers of 607 t. belonged to the port, which has Allonby and Port Carlisle for sub-ports; and the tonnage Inwards and Outwards, including repeated voyages, was 'coastwise,' 285 of 9405, and 780 of 82,542 tons (besides 148 steamers of 88,471, and 145 of 87,919 t.),—from and to 'colonies' 17 of 3299, and 5 of 1068 t.,—from and to 'foreign ports,' 1 foreigner of 550, and 1 of 150 t.; total customs 48,122L.—the trade being in grain, bark, etc. The Diocese, province of York, is co-extensive with the ARCHDEACONRY, which contains the deaneries of Allerdale, Carlisle, and Westmoreland, or 96 benefices, comprising all Cumbrid and Westward, except Allerdale—above-Derwent and Kendal wards. Bishop's seat, Rose Castle, and income 8000L, with patr. of 45 living. Abps. Usher and Sterne have held it. The DEANERY contains the benefices marked in Cumberland and Eskdale wards, with Hesketh in the Forest cw. The chapter consists of a chan., 4 canons, archdeacon (345L), chancellor, 4 minor canons. Carlisle P. L. Union, contains the para. etc. of Carlisle, Beaumont, Burgh-by-Sands, Crosby, Dalston, Grinsdale, Kirkandrews, Orton, Rockcliffe, Stanwix, Warwick, Wetheral, Wreay with Blackwell, Carleton, Harraby, Kingmoor, Upperby acres 58,890, pop. 36,084, cases relieved (yr. 1846-7) 3419 (out-door 2875), expend. 8523L, prop. rated 187,941L. Sup. Registry comprises the same up to Wreay, with Highead, Little Corby, Middlesceugh, Braithwaite; pop. 36,159 + 818; births (1845) 1244 (598 being females, 127 illegit.)—deaths 752—marriages 250, of which 186 persons signed with marks: 41 deaths from cholera in '49. The New County Court district includes the Registry, with Brampton and Longtown. Mtd. Da. Wed. Sat. Fairs, 26 Aug. 19 Sept. horses, cattle; every Sat. from Michaelmas to Christmas on the Sands; Sats. at Whitenside and Martinmas, hiring. Races, July, on a course of 1 m. 90 yds.

It contains 846 sq. m. or 221,342 acres, of which 184,059 are arable, 4927 plantation, 31,429 uncultivated heath bog, etc., 505 water; 15,210 families, of whom 10,498, or 69 per cent. live by agricult., 8139, or 21 per cent. by manufact. trade, etc., 408 professions or independent, 8999 by manual labour, 10,147 in 8rd and 4th, or lowest class houses; 86,228 + 422 persons, of whom 15,781 are in Carlow, Tullow, Bagenalstown, and 43,800 are females, 40,026 under 20 yrs. of age, 79,812 county-born; 14,562 houses, besides 554 empty, or building; 7 baronies—Carlow (NW.), Forth (E.), Idrone East and West (Mid. and W.), Rathvilly (NE.), St. Mullin's Lower and Upper (S.); 85 parishes (of which St. Mullin's is largest—17,854 ac.), and parts of 12 others; 5 market towns—Carlow the co. town etc. as below, Tullow and Bagenalstown where q. sessions are partly held, Leighlinbridge, Hacketstown,—the first being head of a poor law Union,—the first 8 with Borris, police districts (20 stations and 159 men),—and there are 4 fever hosp. and 10 dispensaries; returns three members to parl. (6 before the Union), being 2 for county (1184 elect.), and one for Carlow (as below); is governed by a 1 Lieut., high sheriff, 8 deputy lieuts., and about 46 magistrates; is in the Home circuit, the E. military district, and Leighlin diocese, which with Ferns is united to Ossory. Gross rental (1846) 222,819L, or 21s. 1½d. per acre; val. to poor r. 193,838L; county rate ('48) 18,457L. Loan funds ('48) 5, with a capital of 8478L, and circulating 18,040L. Schools (national) 55, with 7785 child. attending,—in 1841, 8135 went to schools of all kinds, and 88-7 per cent. of the pop. could not read or write. Av. number of committals ('45-8) 501, of whom 227 were convicted. Births, 1 in 34; deaths 1 in 82. On the S. are the Blackstairs granite range, and Mt. Leinster (2604 ft.), and to NE. are some hills from 400 to 900 ft.; with this exception, the surface is nearly level upon a limestone bottom. Soil, in the uplands gravelly—in the plain, rich loam, with abundance of pasture and many dairies, whence excellent butter (as much as 50,000 firkins yearly) and fat cattle are sent to market. Acres in crop ('48) 89,214, of which the chief are oats 25,875, potatoes 18,668, wheat 12,205, meadow and clover 26,291, barley and rye 6349, turnips 3500,—and val. of live stock in '41 on 6875 farms above one acre, was 278,159L, including 28,432 sheep, 23,163 cattle (Durham cross, etc.), 21,408 pigs, 9702 horses, etc., 102,081 poultry, etc. About 800,000 barrels of flour and meal are ground in the water-mills scattered along the Barrow,—some of which as at Milford, etc. are very large. The plantations are oak (851 acres), fir (268), chestnut, lime, thorn. Draining is backward, and the inclosures are frequently either a stone paling made of granite which splits easily, or a ditch. Coal, worked at Castlecomer, and limestone, which is sometimes marbly, and bears a polish, is used for building and other purposes. Manufactures, of no consequence. The Burren and Durmeen are two small branches of the rivers above. Among the antiquities are remains of a cromlech 23 ft. long, weighing 90 tons, at Viewmount, and another at Tobintown; an old church at St. Mullin's; abbey ruins at Wells and Tullough,—where also is the Graces' castle and the Cloch a Phoil or hole-stone, through which children were passed; an old rath at Leighlin bridge; Lacy's castle at Carlow, to guard the Pale; the Ormonds', at Clogrenan, White and Black castles at Leighlin—once the seat of a bishop, where a synod was held 680; the Templars' cast. at Ballymoon; Butlers', at Clonmore; and one at Clonmullen, where lived Carolan's 'Aileen a Roon.' Some of the leading fams. are: Visct. Duncannon Garrishill, Butler, Bt. Ballintemple, Kavanagh of Borris Cast., Bruen of Erin Dale, Eustace of Castlemore, McClintock of Moyie (through the Bunbrys), Newton of Dunleachney (through the Ryans and Bagenals). Other old names were Duval, St. Aubin, Cooke, Bermingham, Carew, Burton of Burton. Carlow, or Catherlogh, was made a shire within the Pale or Irish border by John, who gave it to Will. Earl of Pembroke, whence it came through the Bigods and Howards to the Crown. As guardians of the pale, they were involved in continual warfare with its native possessors and the chiefs beyond, but nothing of historical importance occurred. Roads: 1. Carmacosp, 11 m. S. of Lanark, SW. Lanark. CARMARTHENSHIRE (87, 40-2, 56-7) a seaside county on the Bristol Chan. in S. Wales, the seat of the Demetae or Dyfed in the roman Britannia Secunda, afterwards part of Ceredigion or Dinawor, was traversed by the Via Julia Maritima, lies between Ra. Loughor and Teifi, is watered by the Tawe and the Towy, whence it was called 'Ystrad Towy,'—and bordered by Glamorgan (SE.), Brecon (NE.), Cardigan (N.), Pembroke (W.), and sea (S.). Length from Amroth Cast. to the head of R. Bran 50 m., greatest breadth 85, av. breadth 21; circuit 165, including 85 of marshy coast, along which are Llanelly and the subordinate ports of Kidwelly, Llaugharne, St. Clear, Carmarthen, all in C. Bay; relative size 117-10,000ths. It contains 974 sq. m. or 628,360 acres, of which about one third is waste, though partly enclosed; 106,326+567 persons, of whom 19,222 are in Carmarthen, Llanelly, and Pembrey,—55,650 are females, 51,502 under 20 yrs. of age, 97,547 county-born,—9070, or 8.5 per cent. live by commerce, manufact. etc. (1687 being miners), 14,511, or 18.7 per cent., by agricult. Real prop. (1815) 282,030*l.*, — ('43) 396,915*l.* of which 9596*l.* on mines; ditto rentals 216,648*l.* or 6*s.* 11*d.* per acre (when wheat was 77*s.*) and 815,761*l.* or 10*s.* 1*d.* per acre (wheat 55*s.*). County income ('48) 14,828*l.*, of which 9592*l.* from co. rate (on a val. of 824,100*l.* made 1841), 2988*l.* from police r. Poor r. (yr. 1846-7) for 6 unions, 81,038*l.* on 332,378*l.* or 1*s.* 10*d.* in the £ (wheat being 59*s.*), — cases relieved 10,429 (out-door 9557) in estimated pop. of 114,080. Total charities 1088*l.*, of which 397*l.* for schools and education; savings bks. ('49) 8, with 29,204*l.* from 921 depositors; in '38-9, 1679 m. of road (257 m. being turnpike) were maintained for 6285*l.* In '46-7, out of 90 pars. 68 had 87 church schools, supported by 2299*l.*, with 5332 child. attending, and 86 paid teachers (15 being monitors), whose salaries were 1599*l.*, and who had 14 teachers' houses: out of these 52 were free schools, and 22 sund. sch. (exclusively, — with 245 teachers and 2146 child.); and 26 in union with the National Soc. had 1693 child., and total grants of 1056*l.* Offenders in '48, 65 (or 72 av. of 5 yrs.), of whom 83 were convicted, 16 were females, 1 under 15 yrs. of age, 82 could not read or write. For births, deaths, etc., see S. WALES. A range of bleak hills divides R. Cothi from the Teifi, the highest point (1168 ft.) being near New Inn; another range to the SE., beginning at Myndd Mawr with Llyn Tegwyn on top, divides the Towy from the Laugharne, rising into the Black mountains on the E. border, where the Ban Sir Gaer, or C. Beacon, is 2596 ft. high. Between these lies the valley, or Ystrad, of the Towy, most part of which to N. and W. belongs to the Silurian or slate system; E. of it and across its mouth is a strip of old red sandstone; next to this, another of carboniferous lime and grit stone edges the great Glamorgan coal basin, which stretches beyond Kidwelly. Climate mild, but rainy; with a good soil about the Towy, but poor and clayey in the uplands, where peat is the only fuel. Oats are the chief crop for bread and exportation; on account of the climate much of the wheat is imported. Cattle, as well as sheep, are the small native breed, with a few from Pembroke, Hereford, etc. Butter and hogs are sent to market from the dairy lands. Farm system, bad, but improving; buildings, inferior; cottages of mud, and thatched; and stone inclosures. Coal — chiefly stone coal with many fossil plants (and employing 1499 persons) — and iron are worked around Llanelli; copper at Kidwelly; slate, building, and fire stone at Cwm Gwili and elsewhere; dark blue marble at Llangydeirnir; and lead (74 persons) at Lord Cawdor's mine near Nant-y-Moryn up the Towy. Woollens (111 persons were employed in factories 1847), and hides, are made for exportation; and fine fish caught in C. Bay. Branches of the Towy (the anc. Tobius), which produces salmon and sewa, are, the Gwili, Cothi, Bran, Sawddy, Cennen; other rivers, — the Tave, with the Gynin, Cowyn, Morlais, for branches; the two Gwendreths; the Llonghor or Loughor and Ammon. Llanarthne has a good mineral water. At Kidwelly is a canal 5 m. long; and two or three rails, for mining produce run up from Llanelli — one 15 m. long along the Loughor; 85 m. of S. Wales rail. will go through Loughor, Llanelli, Kidwelly, Carmarthen, Whitland ab. (towards Narberth). The Roman Via Julia Maritima went along the coast through Leucarum, or Loughor, and Maridunum, or Caer-marthen; traces of the Sarn Helen (Legion way) are seen from Carmarthen towards Llanvair (where many remains have been found) on the Towy, in the direction of the supposed Via Montana; and towards Llanio in Cardigan, whence a third branch went round to Llanvair again. Coins have turned up at Pembory, Clymaenllwyd and Convil Gaio. At Buarth Arthur is a druid circle with a cromlech near it; Convil, in Elvet, has some earthworks and part of a cromlech; there is a camp at Cron Gae — Dyer's 'Grongar hill'; and another, — called Tricrug — at Llangadock. Besides these, are remains of Talley and Whitland abbeys, and Llanllwny priory; of castles, at Carmarthen, Kidwelly, Laugharne, Lanstephan, Newcastle Emlyn, and at Carrig Cimen, Dynevor (the seat of the S. Wales princes), Dryslwyn, and Llandovery, all in the vale of Towy. As part of Dynevor it belonged to the fam. of Rhys, descendants of Rhodri Mawr and Howel Dha (who promulgated his welsh code from Ty Gwyn near St. Clear), till subdued by Edw. I., when it was made a distinct county. Merlin's grove is at Abergwili, where, 1020, Llewelyn ab Idris defeated Ryn, a scottish leader; at Llandovery Pritchard was born, who wrote the 'Lly-fr-y-Ficer,' or Vicar's book, a collection of pious carols as common as the bible. Some principal seats and families are: Earl Cawdor Golden Grove, where Jeremy Taylor was protected by the Vaughans, Bp. of St. David's Abergwili Palace, Lord Dinevor Newton, Mansel, Bt. Iccod, J. Williams, Bt. Edwinstford, E. (4572 being quarriers, miners), 420 educated professions, 2281 are independent, 20,460 labourers and servants; 16,845 houses, besides 902 empty or building; 10 hunds., — Is-Gorfa and Urch-Gorfa (Mid. and W. round Snowdon), Uchaf (N.), Creuddyn (NE.), Isaf (E.), Nant-Conway (SE.), Evionydd (S.), Minlaen, Gafflogian and Committmaen (SW.); 68 parishes (besides parts of 5 others), and 2 ext. par. places; 7 market towns, — Carnarvon the co. town, etc. as below, Pwllheli, Conway, Bangor city and seat of a bishopric, Nevins, Criccieth (disused), Tremadoc (new), — the first four being poor law unions, and (with Tremadoc) New County Courts; returns two members to parl. — viz. one for the county (elect. 2319), one for Carnarvon and its five contributory boroughs, as below; is in Welsh circuit, the assizes being at Carnarvon, — and in the Home military district; is governed by a lord lieut. high sheriff, and about 30 magistrates; and is part of Bangor diocese, in province of Canterbury. Real prop. (1815) 181,218*l.*, — ('48) 251,044*l.*, of which 53,189*l.* on mines and quarries; ditto rentals 95,267*l.* or 5*s.* 5*d.* per acre (when wheat was 7*s.*), and 150,047*l.* or 8*s.* 7*d.* per acre (wheat 5*s.*). County income ('49) 5809*l.*, of which 3405*l.* from co. rate (on a val. of 204,299*l.* made 1840), 2171*l.* from the treasury. Poor r. (yr. 1846-7) of 4 Unions 26,050*l.* on 174,175*l.* or 3*s.* in the \mathcal{L} (wheat being 5*s.*), — cases relieved 9087 (out-door 8676) in estimated pop. of 98,195. Total charities 2165*l.*, of which 888*l.* for schools and education; savings bks. ('49) 2, with 16,515*l.* from 628 depositors; in yr. '88-9, 864 m. of road (158 m. being turnpike) were maintained for 2167*l.* In '46-7 out of 63 pars. 48 had 74 church schools, supported by 2416*l.*, with 5973 child. attending, and 96 paid teachers (17 being monitors) whose salaries were 1952*l.*, and who had 53 teachers' houses; out of these, 17 were free schools and 7 sund. sch. (inclusively — with 178 teachers and 1223 child.); and 53 in union with the National Soc. had 4485 child. and total grants of 2000*l.* Offenders in '48, 60 (or 48 av. of 5 yrs.), of whom 83 were convicted, 12 were females, 0 under 15 yrs. of age, 14 could not read or write. For births, deaths, etc. see N. WALKS. The lower Silurian or slaty formation prevails here, intersected by basalt and other igneous rocks, with a strip of mica slate on the coast S. of Porthdymlaen, another of limestone near Bangor (with thin coal strata on Menai Strait) and at Gt. Orme's Head. Between Penmaenmaur (1540 ft. high) and Yr Eifl or Kival (1868), near Nevins, is a rugged alpine range — once crowned with forests, and the last stronghold of the Britons against Edw. I. — in the middle of which the double-headed Snowdon, the Creigiau'r Eryri, or Eagle rocks of the Welsh, rises 3571 ft. at Y Wyddfa, the highest or 'conspicuous' top, with a view which embraces Cader Idris, Irish Sea, Wicklow, I. of Man, Scottish and York hills, and 25 lakes at its base. Other peaks of this chain are: Carnedd David 8427 ft., Carn. Llewellyn 8469 ft., Mool Shabod 2878 ft., Mool Hebog 2584 ft., Clawd Goch 2478 ft., Graig Goch 2350 ft., Gyrn Goch 1718 ft., etc. Porphyry, basalt, with rag, chert, and whinstone, abound; blue slate at Dolawen quarry, red at Cilgwyn, near Llanfyllni, purplish at Dolbadern or Dinorwig — and much is shipped at Trevriw, the quarries employing 2832 hands. At Nant Francon and Cwm Idwal stone for houses is found; copper (439 hands) is worked at Llanberis, Derweneg near Gt. Orme's head, Capel Curig and Beddgelert; lead and zinc at Bwlch-haearn near Gwydir, Geest near Penmorfa, and Penrhyn-du near St. Tudwal's; millstone at Conway, and ochre near Dolawen; marine shells are found about Snowdon 1630 ft. above the sea; and many pebbles contain chalk flints. In the cwms or deep valleys around are 50 or 60 lakes, which supply many streams and falls towards the Menai or Conway; — the chief lakes are: Lyn-y-Cwm, the highest; L. Llanberis, with its castle, quarries, and a cromlech stone much larger than Bowderstone; L. Nanlle, L. Ogwen with the Benglog fall under Trevaen; L. Cawellyn under Myndd Mawr; L. Geirionedd, and fall, where Taliesin the bard lived; L. Conway; — some other falls or rhaiadras are, R. Cwmtyli, R. Llygwy, R.-y-Wennol, and Rh. Machno. The best points for ascending Snowdon are Beddgelert near Pont-aberglaslyn pass, Capel Curig, Llanberis, and L. Cawellyn; and good views are had at these, and at Nant Gwynant pass and lyn (to which Vortigern and Merlin retired) and Penmaenmawr. Among the native plants, including 27 rare ones, are fern, maidenhair, Bryum, scurvy-grass, cranesbill, honeywort, liverwort and other lichens, crow-foot, gillyflower, rue, speedwell, alpine violet, etc.; wolves and deer have disappeared with the forest, but foxes and large goats are found, with golden eagle (rare) and rock ouzel. The upland district of Llyn to SW. is like Anglesea in character; it is chiefly pasture for the small native black cattle and sheep, which in summer ascend the mountains to feed, and descend as the cold season comes on. A little wheat is grown in the light soil by the sea; but the chief crops are oats, potatoes, and barley. The people are long-lived and simple in their habits; they live on oat-bread and goats' flesh, the dairies furnishing cheese and butter, and they make flannel for the markets. Horses are good, and the ugly native pig is improved by crossing with Berkshire. Many houses are built in a rough way of stone and clay slate; but the cottages are mean, and the fences of stone. Herrings are caught on the coast; paper, druggets and yarn are made at Tremadoc and Llanrug. Caerhun is the roman Conovium on the Toisobius or Conway, where pearl mussels are found, and Carnarvon is Segontium. There are remains of camps or forts at Diganwy, one of the earliest seats of the welsh princes, Dolbenmaen, Yr Caei on Yr Eifi, Dinas Dinorwig, Din. Dinlle, and Braich-y-Dinas; of castles at Carnarvon and Conway—two of the finest in the kingdom—and also at Dolbadarn and Cricieth, where lived Sir Howell-y-Fwyal (i. e. of the battleaxe), who helped to take the French king at Poitiers. Bardsey, near the Fr. Cascanorum, has remains of its culdee abbey; of Maenan only an arch is left; there is a large church at Clynog where St. Beuno settled; cromlechs at Bacheren, Ystym Cegid, Cefn Amlwch, Penmorfa, and Ymeinau hirion, near Braich-y-Dinas. This country was the last held by Llewellyn, on whose defeat Edw. I., after ascending Snowdon, held a tournament at Nevin 1284. The seats, etc. are: Lord Newborough Glynllifon Pk., Ld. Gwydir G. Hall, Ld. Mostyn Gloddach, Williams, Bt. Nant Hall, Pennant of Pentwyn Cast., Smith of Faenol, Mrs. Finch of Cefn Amlwch, Parry of Madryn, Edwards of Nanthoran, Griffiths of Llanfair, Thomas of Coed Helen, Carreg of Tanyr allt, Lenthal of Maenan. Roads from Carnarvon: 1. To Britannia Bridge 5 m., Menai Br. 6, Bangor 8, along Chest. and Holyhd. rail. to Penmaenmawr 18, Conway 23, thence to Chester 64. 2. Cast. Dolbadarn under Snowdon 8, Capel Curig 16, Llanrwst 22, thence to Denbigh 89. 3. to Bettws Garmon 4, Llyn Cewellyn under Snowdon 8, Beddgelert 12, Tremadoc 18; or by Glynllifon and Dolbenmaen 16. 4. along the coast to Glynllifon 6, Nevin 19 (thence to Pwllheli 25), Aberdaron 81, and Bardsey Sound 84.

• P. M. B. CARNARVON (78) or Caer-yr-ar-Fôn (i. e. the fort opposite Mon or Anglesea), Llanbeblig par. Isgorvill hund. W. Carnarvon. 235 m. from London (or 239 through Bangor on Holyhd. rail.), the county, assize, sessions, election, and polling town, militia head qrs. a bonding-port and bathing-place, in a fine spot on Menai Strait, at the R. Seiont's mouth,—the roman Segontium on the Sarn Helen, Caer Custein, or Constantine's fort, of the Welsh, who say that he lived here, was for a while the seat of Cadwallo and other N. Wales princes till 878, when they went back to Aberffraw; was taken by Edw. I., who (1282) built the walls and began the castle, 1224, the same year, in which his son Edw. II., the first 'Prince of Wales' was born; blockaded

1402 by O. Glyndwr, and occupied by both parties in the civil wars, till secured for the puritans by Gen. Mytton, 1648;—has returned one member to Parl. from Hen. VIII.'s time, the limits being unaltered by the Reform bill,—no. of electors (including Bangor, Conway, Cricieth, Nevin, Pwllheli contributory boroughs) 877 (of 104. houses 5017), and chief influence with Marq. of Anglesea; was chartered by Edw. I., and by the new act divided into two wards, with reduced limits, governed by mayor (who is constable of the castle), 6 ald., 8 council, with the style of "mayor, bailiffs, and burgesses of town and boro' of C.," and revenue of 304*l.* Size of parl. boro' about 8 m. in circuit,—of municipal boro', one-sixth; pop. 8001, in the fisheries, coasting, and foreign trade; houses 1592, in narrow but regular streets, with 7 chapels, county hall, co. prison (one of the cast. towers), town hall on E. gate of the walls, mkt. house, 2 banks, custom-house, baths near the nat. hist. soc. Of the noble castle, b. 1284-1320 by Hen. de Elreton, and lately repaired, which consists of two courts covering 2½ acres, and is held by Marq. of Anglesea, there are remains of the gateway with a figure of Edw. I., the Queen's gate,—Eagle tower where they say Edw. II. was born (though it was not finished till 1316-7) with its 3 turrets and 158 steps, commanding the best view,—the walls 8 to 10 ft. thick, round which a gallery went, with thirteen 5, 6, and 8-sided turrets. The town walls still exist with bastions and two gates. Outside are traces of the roman city, which covered about 7 acres, where walls of a fort are seen, tiles, coins, etc., have been found, and whence a road went to Dinas Denlle camp, and the Sarn Helen ran southwards. A pier and landing-slip have improved the harbour off the Bell tower, beyond which is anchorage in 4 fath., but it is obstructed by Aber sand outside Menai Strait, where Llanddwyn point has a fixed light. In 1846, 159 sail of 9614 tons (90 being under 50 t. each) belonged to the port, which has Pwllheli, Barmouth, Port Madoc, Porthdynllaen, for subports, and the tonnage Inwards and Outwards including repeated voyages, was 'coastwise' 1814 sail of 48,447 and 834 of 11,635 tons (besides 40 steamers of 5084 and 64 of 9435 t.),—from and to 'colonies,' 23 of 8418 and 24 of 8215 t.,—from and to 'foreign ports' 7 of 1128 and 45 of 4404 t. (besides 3 foreigners of 861 t. Outw.); total customs 7217*l.*—the exports (val. —l.) being in slate and copper brought down Llanllfyn rail.—and imports (val. —l.) timber, coal, etc. Across the steam-ferry, which is 2 m. over, are David's Fort, Ld. Newborough; Plas Newydd, Marq. of Anglesea, near Menai Bridge. Twrhill has a fine prospect, and not far are Llanddwyn Abbey, Llanberis, and Snowdon. Coed Helm, T. Rice, Esq. * P. M. S. * CASHEL city (61) Middle Third bar. Mid. Tipperary, 14 NW. of Clonmel, 100 from Dublin, near Gt. S. West. rail, under the Rock of Cashel, in the 'golden vale,' near R. Suir, the ancient seat of the kings of Munster and of an archbishopric, now of a diocese, is a sessions town, chief police station, and a boro' returning one member to parl. (2 before the Union), the no. of electors being 159 (of 10L houses 840); and is governed by a body of commissioners, who have superseded the old corporation (chartered by Ch. I.), with a revenue of 1478L, partly from 2024 acres of land granted by Abp. Marianus 1229. Acres of boro', 4018, — of city 254; pop. 8027, and 7036 + 6, with no manufactures and little trade; houses 1241, most of them thatched and mean, with the new cathedral or par. church, 6 chapels, archbp.'s palace (now the Deanery) with a clerical library attached, county court-house, gaol and infirmary, town-hall, mkt. house, charter school (now a private house), national and other schools, bank, water-works supplied from a distance of 8 m. savings bk. (6108L from 198 depositors), loan fund, fever hosp. and Union poor house. Living, a Rect. (Ca. E. W. L.), with 2 others attached to the Deanery, val. 483L, patr. Bishop. On the rock, where stood the palace of the Munster kings, and a church built by St. Patrick, whose effigy is here, are the venerable remains of Cormac's chapel, a rich norman specimen 53 ft. long, b. by king Cormac MacCarthy 1134, with some frescoes first discovered by archdn. Cotton, who took great pains to restore the pile; the old early eng. cathedral, 210 ft. by 170, by king Donald O'Brien, 1169, with a mon. to abp. Macgragh, and which was used till 1745; abp. Hedrian's vicars' choral hall (1421) and episcopal palace; abp. McGarvill's cistercian abbey, 1260; the tribute stone; and a round tower of freestone, 90 ft. high, 56 girth. A little to the W. is Hore Abbey, also found. by McGarvill 1272; and in the town is an old friary. At this place Hen. II. had the kingdom of Ireland confirmed to him by Pope Alexander 1172; subsequently, in the conquests between the Butlers and Fitzgeralds, the Earl of Kildare burnt the cathedral, with the excuse that "he would not have thought of committing such a sacrilege, but he was told of a certainty that the archbp. was in it;" and in 1647 it was taken by Ld. Inchiquin for parliament. The archdiocese now merged into a bishopric, comprehended the dioceses of Cashel, Emly, Limerick, Ardfer, Aghadoc, Waterford, Lismore, Cork, Ross, Cloyne, Killaloe, and Kilkennora, including the whole of Munster, with parts of Kilky, King's Co., and Galway. Channel, The, or British or English Channel, between England and France, called 'La Manche,' i. e. the Sleeve, by the French, and Oceanus Britannicus by the Romans, stretches from a line from Dover to C. Grisnez (18 m. long) to one from the Land's End to Roches de Porcal (97 m.) near Aber-vach, washes the coasts of Kent, Sussex, Hants. Dorset. Devon. Cornwall, includes the Channel Islds., I. of Wight, Scilly islds., and contains about 23,900 sq. m. A line at the mouth, or 'chops,' from 49° 20' N. (the parallel where ships usually enter) to the middle of Straits of Dover, lies WSW. ¼ W. and ENE. ¼ E., and is 280 m. long. Greatest breadth (Sidmouth to St. Malo) 128 m., average above Beachy Head 88, thence to Portland 67, and below it 83, — general average 70. At the Straits, where the submarine telegraph crosses, a chalk ridge (12 to 80 fath. deep) shooting up at the Ridge and Varne banks (only 1½ to 4 fath.) joins the two countries, — thence the depths gradually increase to 60 fath. down the Channel (as well as up the N. Sea) interrupted by the E. and W. Vergoyer banks (8 to 5 fath.) off Boulogne, and several hollows (5 to 80 fath. deeper than the neighbouring parts) called the W., NW., S. and Hurd's, Deeps (about lat. 50° N., and long. 0° to 8° W.) — the bottom throughout being chiefly coarse gravelly ground. In-shore the depths are 15 to 22 fath. to Dungeness, 12 to 22 to Beachy, 15 to 55 to Prawle Point, 35 to 45 to the Lizard. Length of the English coast about 890 m., with several good harbours, and lights at S. Foreland, Dungeness, Beachy, Owers, and Beambridge (floating), Needles (469 ft. high), St. Alban's Head, Portland, Start Point, Eddystone, Lizard, Longships, Seven Stones (floating), Scilly; the French coast is 510 m., with one tolerable haven at Havre, a strongly fortified dockyard at Cherbourg, inside a breakwater of 2½ m.; and lights at C. Grisnez, Cayeux, la Heve, Dieppe, Barfleur, Cherbourg, La Hogue, the Caskets or Casquets, Frekel, Heaux de Brehat, Isle Bas, Ushant. Old forts of Hen. VIII. and Eliz. are at Dover, Calshot, Southsea, Hurst, Portland, Weymo', etc.; and the flat coasts of Kent and Sussex between Eastwear bay and Seaford are defended by 74 martello towers, b. in the late war — they are of brick, round, 40 ft. diam. (at bottom, 80 at top), 80 high, bomb-proof, and mounted with a swivel, and are about ¼ m. apart. Along the english side are Dover (anc. Portus Dubris) with its harb., breakwater, and Castle hill (460 ft. of chalk); Folkestone hill, 575 ft. (chalk); Roar and Swallow banks in E. Bay; Dungeness; Rye harb. at R. Rother's mouth (Portus Novus) and Stephenson's bank, in W. Bay; Winchelsea and Hastings (cliffs about 280 ft. high); Beachy Head (532 ft.) at the end of the S. Chalk Downs, with the Rattan, Sovereign, and Holywell shoals off it; Newhaven at R. Ouse's mouth; Brighton, Shoreham harb., Littlehampton at R. Arun's mouth; Mixon and Wolstoner's shoals near Selsea Bill; St. Helen's, the Princess, and other shoals near I. of Wight; Spithead and Portsmouth (Portus Magnus) under Portsdown hill (440 ft.); Southampton Water (Triacanton) at R. Anton or Test's mouth; Lymington in R. Solent; Christchurch at R. Avon's, Poole harb. at R. Frome's mouth; Weymouth; Portland Bill (458 ft.) or Vindelia Prom. where a breakwater is making, with the Shambles shoal off it; Bridport and Lyme Regis harba.; Axmouth at R. Axe's mouth (Alanus), Sidmouth; Exmouth and Exeter on R. Ex (Isaca), Teignmouth; Torbay near Bury Hd. (Hellenis Prom.); Dartmouth on R. Dart; Start Point near the Skerries shoal; Prawle Point, Bolt Head and Tail, Bigbury bay; Plymouth and breakwater at R. Tamar's mouth (Tamarus) near the Rame Hd. (Kriou Metopon) and Maller Hill (402 ft.); Looe and Fowey harba.; St. Austell's Bay, Deadman Point, Falmouth (Cenionis Ostia), Manacles Rocks, Lizard (Ocrinum Prom.), Penzance in Mount's Bay; Land's End (Boletium Prom.) with the Wolf Rock beacon, etc. off it, and Scilly Islds. in the distance. Chalk, green sands, wealdon clay, etc. are found to Steyning and in I. of Wight; clay to Studland; chalk, purbeck stone, etc. to Lulworth; round Portland to Lyme, oolite and lias (where saurians have been found); green sands, etc. thence to Beer Head, where the last chalk is seen; keuper sandstone, new and old red sandst. to Start point; old red sandst. with trap (at the Lizard, etc.); and granite, to the Land's End. The Scilly Islds. are granite. Outside the Channel the depths increase to 200 fath. at the edge of the Bank of Soundings. High water at full and change, at Dover XI. o'clock, off Brighton XI. ¾, off Spithead XI. ¾, off Needles X. ¾, at Channel Islds. IX., off Portland IX. ¾, off Torbay IX., off Eddystone VII. ¾, off Lizard VIII., off Scilly VI. ¾.

Channels Islands, the last remnant of the dukedom of Normandy belonging to England, lie off the coast of Brittany France, in the Channel where the tides meet, and comprise Jersey bailiwick and that of Guernsey, which includes Alderney (the nearest to both coasts), Serq, Herm, Jethou, Le Marchant, and Caskets; were known by name to the Romans as Cesarea, Lernia, Arica, etc.; granted (560) by Childbert to Archbp. Sampson (a Saxon), who built a chapel at Sampson's harb. (Jer.), and with his successor St. Magliore helped to spread Christianity; ravaged (850 to 900) by the northmen, who murdered St. Helier in his cell near St. Helier's (Jer.); granted (912) by Chas. IV. to Rollo, 1st duke of Normandy, who gave Guern. to Sampson d'Anneville and fortified St. Michael's castle against the Danes; came to the english crown on the death of Rob. Curthose (who built Mount Orgueil), and were given by Rich. I. to John, who, upon the death of his nephew Arthur, lost all Normandy except the islds.; were invaded by the French (Edw. I.), also (Edw. III.) when they took Castle Cornet, and Mt. Orgueil was besieged by Du Guesclin the conqueror of Sicily, — also (Hen. IV.) and (Hen. VI.) when Pierre de Freye took them by treachery, but they were recovered (Edw. IV.) by Phil. de Carteret and Sir H. Harliston, — again (Edw. VI.) when they took Cergy, which was retaken by stratagem; became the home of many refugee protestants after the Reformation, which took deep root here — and though the liturgy is used, the discipline is almost presbyterian; were governed in Elizabeth's time by the great Raleigh, who built the college and opened the Newfoundland fisheries; sided with Chas. I. and were defended by Carteret and Osborne against Blake, etc., but being given up, were governed by 12 commissioners; attacked by the French, May 1779, when the prince of Nassau with 6000 attempting St. Ouen and Brelade bays were driven off, and their fleet destroyed by Wallace; and again, 1781, when 1200 men under Rallicourt surprised the lieutenant-gov. by night, and took St. Helier's, but were routed by the militia, with the death of their leaders Pierson and Mulcaster. Pop. 76,065 +1, of whom 39,208 are in St. Helier's and Peter le Porte, 41,520 are females, 32,811 under 20 yrs. of age, and 54,599 island-born; houses 11,212, besides 668 empty and building. Parishes 24, all rectories, making a deanery in dioc. of Winton, and each managed by a constable (or magistrate) with 2 substitutes or centeniers, and 12 vintaniers, etc. The substratum is gneiss and sienite, or dark granite, with some manganees, and lead containing silver (in Serq). Climate mild and equable, with a mean temp. of 53°. Whiting, flatfish, conger, lobsters, oysters (St. Catherine's bay) are found in the sea, which has from 5 to 30 fath. at low water, and is covered with rocks and shoals, where the tide (which rises 41 ft.) runs very strongly. Around Jersey are the Minquiers, Grelets, Videt, Anquetta, Bœuffin, Château, Ecrouhou, Dirouailles, Pater-noster, Rigdon, Grand, and other banks; the Deroute chan. divides it from Guernsey, which has about it the Hanois, Lihou, Bray, and the Anfroque and other shoals in the Gt. and Little Russel channels (next Herm and Serq); near Alderney is the Race in the Chan. towards Cape la Hogue light, through which the tide rushes 7 m. an hour, — also the Blanchard, Noire Putes, Chole, Susurouais banks, and the Ortach or Burhou, which has the Passage du Singe or 'Swings' on one side, and on the other the Pommier and Casquets, with a revolving light seen 15 m. Laver and samphire are found on the rocks; and sea-weed, or vraic, gathered for fuel and manure. By the feudal constitution of John, the government is in the hands of the queen in council, with a governor, who still has large nominal powers, and a resident lieutenant-gov. The forms of law are grounded on the old norman practice, and a majority of the jury convict in criminal cases. The judicial courts at Jers. and Guern. are composed of a bailiff or president appointed by the crown, 12 jurats for life chosen by the people, and the attorney and solicitor-general and vicompte or sheriff, — from whom, except in murder, there is no appeal; they hold four courts, viz. of 'Heritage,' for property cases, — 'Chattels,' for rents, bankruptcy, etc., which is also the criminal court, — 'Roll,' for relief of the other two courts, — and the 'Samedi,' or Saturday, for minor cases of assault, etc. For the States of Assembly, see JERSEY and GUERNSEY. All men between 19 and 65 yrs. are trained in the militia, which has a battery of artillery, and is commanded by the lieutenant-gov. Gavel-kind custom prevails, by which the best house and part of the land goes to the eldest son, 2-3rds of the rest equally among the other sons, and 1-3rd to the daughters. In consequence of intermarriages to keep property in the family many idiots are seen. The language is a sort of norman patois. By a papal bull no laid merchant ship could be made a prize, which was recognised by France down to Will. III.; and there are other privileges peculiar to the islds. Convicts were transported to England. Remains of old castles are to be seen, and poqueleys or druid cromlechs, which are properly scandinavian. In 1846, 440 sail of 41,907 tons (166 being under 50 t. each) and 1 steamer of 39 t. belonged to the islds. and the tonnage Inwards and Outwards, including repeated voyages, was from 'colonies' 2 sail of 197 tons — from and to 'foreign ports' 928 sail of 80,768, and 865 of 28,548 t., besides 142 steamers of 10,621 and 189 of 10,321 t., and 195 foreigners of 18,352 and 188 of 17,921 t.

The Royal Hospital, which, with the grounds, extends over 50 acres, on the site of Dean Satchliffe's (or Jas. I.'s) half-completed Polemical Divinity College, to which Camden was historiographer, and Field who wrote 'Of the Church' a fellow, was found. by Ch. II. (at the instance of Sir S. Fox, though tradition says of Nell Gwynne), and b. 1682-90 by Wren for 150,000l., of brick, with stone facings; consists of a front towards the town, 790 ft. long, with a doric centre, and towards the river, of the East (or Light Horse), the West, and Middle Courts, the last 865 ft. down the wings, with a bronze of Ch. II. by Rustat (or G. Gibbons), and two cannon from Waterloo, — besides the infirmary by Soane, on the site of Walpole's house; and contains the state and long rooms, with some portraits, chapel, dining-hall (with Ch. II. by Verrio, 46 captured colours), and apartments for officers, etc. In the burial ground are: Mother Ross who served as a dragon under Marlboro', Cheselden the surgeon, Young who was Fielding's 'Parson Adams,' and Dr. Barney. The eccentric Monsey was physician, and P. Francis chaplain to it. The establishment includes a governor, lieutenant-gov., major, treasurer, secretary, 2 chaplains, from 400 to 450 in-pensioners (539 in 1846-7) who have 8s. 6d. to 8d. per week, and dress in scarlet and blue, and 70,000 to 80,000 out-pensioners (69,662 in '46-7) receiving 1½ to 3s. 7½d. per day, through the kingdom, — the total charge being nearly 800,000l. (1,215,028l. in '46-7). Connected with it is the Roy. mil. asylum found. 1801, for 700 boys and 800 girls, children of soldiers, forming three sides of a square, with a chapel, and regimental training school. The wooden bridge across C. Reach to Battersea, built 1771-2, is 1-8th m. long, 23 ft. broad, and cost 20,000l. Close to it was Beaufort House, the seat of More (where No. 17, in that Row, stands), afterwards of the Paulets, Dacres, Cecils, Villierses, Beauforts, and Sloane, who pulled it down 1740 — the gate commemorated in an inscription by Pope, being at Chiswick. Other old seats and eminent residents were: the Beauchampes and Berkeleys, the Talbots (whose house stood till 1814); Count Zinzendorf, who began to form a Moravian society at Lindsey Ho., near their burial ground; Bp. Fletcher, father of the poet; Bp. Atterbury, Swift, and Arbuthnot, who lived near each other in Church-lane; Monmo' Ho., where Gay lived as secretary to the Duke's widow and Smollet wrote his "Sir Launcelot Greaves" and "Humphrey Clinker;" Steele, who wrote many of his Tatlers, etc. here; Dr. Hoadley, author of the "Suspicious Husband," at Ashburnham Ho.; Winchester House, the seat of the Bishops (down 1814); the Duchess of Mazarene whom Ch. II. would have married, the learned Mrs. Astell, Dr. Mead, the commentator Stackhouse, who all lived in Paradise Row; Gough Ho., the seat of the Carberys; Stanley Ho., where Sir C. Wager died; Gordon Ho., on the site of one in which Russell, who commanded at the battle of La Hogue, and Sir R. Walpole lived, close to the hospital; Ranelagh Ho., built by the first earl, and a place of amusement till taken down 1805; Cremorne Ho., built by Earl of Huntingdon, whose daughter is Steele's Aspasia in the 42nd 'Tatler,' — and now turned into public gardens. Don Saltero's coffee-house and museum, set up by Salter, who was Sir H. Sloane's servant, are described in the 34th 'Tatler'; and here Pennant used to see Rich. Cromwell, "a little neat old man with a most placid countenance." The 'old original' bun-house in Jew's Row, was taken down 1839. The World's End, near Cremorne Ho., was of some celebrity, and Queen's Elm marks the spot where Elizabeth took shelter on one occasion. *Chels. P. L. CHESHIRE (72-3, 79-81, 88) a seaside county, NW. England, between R. Mersey and Dee, and county palatine, with separate jurisdiction until 1831,—the seat of the british Cornarii (whose head quarters were at Condote or Kinderton) in the roman Flavia Caesariensis,—was overrun 607 by Ethelfrith, and taken into Mercia 828 by Egbert by the name of Caestrege,—made an earldom under Leofric (Godiva's husband) by Canute, and a palatinate by the Conqueror under Hugh Lupus, who had 8 barons holding of him, and his own parliament, etc.—and was annexed to the Crown, 1265 by Hen. III.; is crossed by the Via Devana and Watling St., and N. West. rail.—watered by the R. Mersey (for 55 m.), Weaver, and Dee (40 m. each), Bollin (28 m.), etc. and the Bridgewater (24 m.), Gd. Trunk (20 m.), and Ellesmere (30) canals,—and bordered by Lancash. (N.), York. and Derby. (NE.), Staff. (SE.), Salop (S.), Flint. and Denbigh. (SW. and W.), Irish sea (NW.). Length from near Malpas NE. to Holme Moss 58 m., greatest breadth 36, av. ditto 18; relative size 182-10,000ths; circuit about 200, of which 8 is the coast of the Wirral between the mouths of the Mersey and Dee, with New Brighton and Leasowes watering-places. It contains 1052 sq. m. or 678,280 acres (649,060 by addition of pars.), of which about 40,000 are common, waste, moor, etc.; 895,860 + 5127 persons, of whom 188,497 are in Stockport, Chester, Mottram par., Congleton, Birkenhead, Runcorn, Nantwich, — 202,014 are females, 188,841 under 20 yrs. of age, 800,170 county-borne, — 93,814 or 23.5 per cent. live by commerce, trade, manufacture, 24,804 or 6.7 per cent. by agriculture. (7454 being farmers, graziers), 8458 educated professions, 8444 are independent, 57,000 labourers and servants, etc.; 78,444 houses, besides 6891 empty and building; 7 hundreds (12 at 'Domesday,' including parts of Flint and Lancash.), in two divisions, — north div. containing Bucklow (N.), Macclesfield (NE.) — south div. containing Northwich, and Eddisbury First and Second (Mid.), Nantwich (S.), Broxton High and Low (SE.), Wirral High and Low (NW.); 88 parishes (Prestbury, the largest, 62,740 acres), with parts of 5 others, and 4 ext. par. places, — besides 8 in Chester; 13 market towns — Chester (s.) the co. town, etc. as below, Stockport (n.), Macclesfield (n.), Altrincham, Congleton (s.), Nantwich (s.), Northwich (s.), Knutsford (n.), Frodham, Malpas, Middlewich, Sandbach (s.), Tarporley, — the first seven (except Chester) with Runcorn (n.), Gt. Boughton, and Poniton (or the Wirral), being poor-law Unions — the first eight, with Runcorn, Birkenhead, and Hyde, New County Courts; returns see members to parl. by Reform act (instead of 4), viz. 2 for north div. (pop. 217,650, electors 6889), with Knutsford for election town and the polling-place above marked (n.), besides Runcorn, Mottram, — 2 for south div. (pop. 177,650, elect. 7949), with Chester for election town and the polling-places marked (s.), besides Birkenhead, — 2 each for Chester (see below), Stockport (el. 1206), Macclesfield (el. 946); is in the Welsh circuit, the assizes being held at Chester, — and N. and Midd. military district; is governed by a lord-lieut. and custos, high-sheriff, 65 deputy lieuts. and 290 magistrates; and constitutes an archdeaconry (as below) with 7 deaneries, in dioc. of Chester, prov. of York. Real prop. (1815) 1,114,927l. ('48) 1,889,987l. of which 89,722l. on mines, 8765l. on quarries, 24,974l. on canals and rail; ditto rentals 724,627l. or 21s. 6d. per acre (when wheat was 77s.), and 962,857l. or 28s. 7d. per acre (wheat 55s.); county income ('48) 47,729l. of which 5387l. from co. rate (on a val. of 103,168l. made 1835), 1609l. from police r., 8558l. from treasury, 24,000l. from R. Weaver Trustees. Poor r. (yr. 1846-7) for 9 unions 80,332l. on 1,574,278l. or 1s. in the £ (wheat being 59s.), cases relieved 81,012 (out-door 27,211) in estimated pop. of 382,775. Total charities 11,632l. of which 8681l. for schools and education (2208l. for gram. sch.); savings bks. ('49) 12, with 647,168l. from 17,687 depositors; in yr. '38-9, 2396 m. of road (431 m. being turnpike) were maintained for 28,541l. In '46-7, out of 192 pars. 184 had 419 church schools, supported by 16,884l., with 85,856 child. attending, and 518 paid teachers (52 being monitors), whose salaries were 12,602l. and who had 154 teachers' houses; out of these 14 were free schools, and 53 sund. sch. (exclusively, — with 1649 teachers and 13,583 child.); and 195 in union with the National Sch. had 22,498 child. and total grants of 13,162l. Offenders in '48, 1070 (or 885 av. of 5 yrs.), of whom 812 were convicted, 299 were females, 49 under 15 yrs. of age, 371 could not read or write. Following the Sup. Registry districts of '45 (total pop. 868,400 + 5156) the 'births' were 12,787, of whom 6270 were females, 1188 or 9.3 per cent. illegit.; 'deaths' 8450 or 1 in 44, — the all-England av. being 46; 'marriages' 2927 (at church 2747), of which

2777 persons or 45.6 per cent. signed with marks. Except a line of sandstone hills on the E. border from Congleton past Alderley Edge (which has a fine view towards Forksh.) in which coal is found, and another from Malpas to Frodham, more than 4-5ths of the surface is flint, well wooded, and enclosed, and chiefly grazing and dairy ground — the soil being marl with clay, sand, peat on a red sandstone bottom, and very fertile in the Vale Royal, of which there is a good prospect from Beeston Castle — a solitary rock of 366 ft. visible all round as far as Liverpool. Potatoes (average 10 tons per acre), oats, wheat (less than formerly), turnips are raised, but the chief produce is cheese, of which about 11,500 to 12,500 tons are sent to all parts of Engld. and Europe, each weighing from 60 to 140 lb. Stock of short-horned and other cows 100,000, yielding annually per head 2400 quarts of milk and 800 lb. of cheese; sheep 65,000, and 1250 packs of wool. System of husbandry backward, but improving; leases run 11 yrs., but the av. size of farms is under 100 acres, and the estates are large. Moss, turf, now replace the forests which existed at Delamere, the Wirral, etc. but oak timber abounds. The manufactures employ 51,481 persons, — the chief being cotton, calico, fustian, and tape (81,279 hands), and silk and ribbons (15,547), at Stockport, Macclesfield, Congleton, Sandbach, Knutsford, Tarporley (leather breeches), besides leather, thread, gloves, stockings, at some of these places, — in 1847, a bad year, 88,106, 108, 14,169 were employed in the cotton, woollen, and silk-mills respectively. Salt (688 hands) from the mines and brine springs along the Weaver, at Nantwich (the roman Salina), Middlewich, Winsford, and Northwich, where 60,000 tons yearly are got from the mines, and 45,000 from springs — Marston salt mine being 86 acres large, and 250 ft. under ground. Other mines (1726 hands) are: coal at Dukinfield — copper, lead, cobalt, at Alderley — ironstone, Stockport — coal, Macclesfield and Parkgate — lime and millstone at Mole Cop (1091 ft. high). — The lakes or meres are: Egerton, Budworth, etc. but of no consequence. — Of native plants are: asplenium scolopendrium fingered hart's tongue, melampyrum arvense, aurifraga autumnalis yellow lengreen, at or near Beeston Castle; — comarum palustre marsh cinquefoil, myrica gale dutch myrtle, narcissus poeticus daffodil, osmunda regalis water fern, pinguicula vulgaris butterwort, sorbus or wild ash, taxocotum or tansy, caccinium ozycoctus whortleberry, — all near Bellow Hill and meers about Whitchurch. Of about 20 religious there are remains of Birkenhead and Rock Savage priories; also of Haulton and Beeston castles; in Delamere forest is the chamber or lodge standing on Ethelfleda's or Eddisbury camp, and many tumuli, barrows, etc. are to be found at Prestbury, which, as well as Mottram, has a curious old church. Nixon, the Cheshire prophet, was born at Over; Bp. Wilson at Burton in Wirral, Bp. Heber at Malpas; Holmshed and Speed were also county born; at Calveley lived Sir Hugh, who fought at Poitiers, etc., and at Shotwick (which has traces of a castle) Mary Davies, whose picture with horns growing out of her head is in the Brit. Museum; the Duttons of Dutton have or had jurisdiction over the minstrels, pipers, etc. of the county; and Milton's widow died at Nantwich 1726. At Rowton Heath Chas. I. was defeated 1646 by Poynts; and Lyme park has a small breed of white cattle like the Earl of Tankerville's. Seats, etc.: Marq. Cholmondeley C. Castle, Marq. Westminster Eaton Hall, Visct. Dee, 22 m. from the sea,—was the Dona on the Via Devana (which went to Colchester) of the Romans who walled it round, Cæsar Leon vator or camp of the great legion (the XX. "Valens Victrix") of the Britons, Legycæster of the Saxons who took it from the Britons 828, and joined it as an earldom to Mercia,—was taken by the Danes 894, retaken 908 by Ethelfreda who reb. the walls, and found. the abbey on the site, it is said, of St. Werburgh's nunnery; was given at the conquest to Hugh Lupus the Conqueror's nephew, who b. the castle and reb. the abbey 1093, about which time it had a merchant guild and a good trade abroad; was given by Hen. III. to his eldest son, whence the title of Earl of Chester has always been conferred on the Prince of Wales; was ravaged by Llewelyn 1255, and after being the scene of various political events, was taken after a siege of 8 months by Brereton for parl. 1645 (subsequent to the fatal battle of Bowton Moor which Ch. I. saw from the Phoenix tower), and was one of 6 cities which coined silver in Will. III.'s time;—has returned two members to parl. since 1541, the boro' limits under the Reform act including the city (which contains 6 pars. and parts of 3 others, as below, with Handbridge and the extr. par. places of Cathedral Precincts, Castle, gaol, and barracks, and Spittle Boughton), and part of Gt. Boughton,—no. of electors being 2663 (of 10L houses 5345); and is divided by the municipal act into 5 wards, governed by a mayor, 10 ald. 80 council, with the style of "mayor and citizens of city of C." and a revenue of 9778L. Acres of boro' 3080,—of city 3010, on dry red sandstone rock which contributes to make it healthy; pop. city 23,115+177, engaged in the manufact. of tobacco pipes, woollen hose, and some in boat building and the shipping trade. Houses (in city)

4647, many ancient and gable fronted, intersected by two principal streets at right angles, first cut into the sandstone by the Romans, so that the roadway and its houses are 4 to 10 ft. below the surface, while above them are other lines of houses and shops projecting overhead, and forming covered ways or galleries called 'Rows,' which are ascended by steps and are the usual places for walking, — with the cathedral, 12 churches, 10 chapels; common hall in the exchange, with portraits of the Grovenors, etc., where the sessions, port-mote, and passage courts, with various jurisdictions are held; shire-hall — a noble stone pile by Harrison, near the castle, with a portico like the Acropolis, consisting of an assize court, county prison, barracks, and armoury, 'pentice' court; city gaol, custom-house; the Commercial, Union, and Manchester, halls; linen hall, now used as a cheese market; 3 banks, savings bk. (119,858l. from 8368 depositors); archaeolog. society; theatre, formerly St. Nicholas's chapel; mechanics' institute, with a museum in the Water Gate; female penitentiary, county lunatic asylum; engine house b. 1680 by Duke of Ormond; fish, meat, and poultry mkts., public baths and wash-houses, infirmary, house of industry; Hen. VIII.'s gram. school in the abbey refectory, with one scholarship; Bp. Stratford's blue coat sch. for boys, green coat sch. for boys, blue coat sch. for girls, Grovenor free schools, Bp. Law's diocesan sch. and training college; St. John's hospital found. before Edw. III.'s time by Randle duke of Brittany, and St. Giles's by Randle Blundeville, earl of Chester, with a united revenue of 608l.; Deane's, Smith's, and Jones's (754) almshouses; the four gates, city mills near the old Dee bridge built about the Conquest of 7 dissimilar arches; new or Grovenor bridge leading to Eaton Hall, by Harrison (1832 for 50,000l.), an arch 200 ft. span, rising 40 ft., with 340 ft. roadway, and 35½ wide outside the parapets, and so named by the Queen when Princess Victoria; and the racestand in the road-eye, i. e. cross island, between the walls and the river. Assd. taxes 37,732l.; poor r. 6778l. on 57,933l.; real prop. 87,702l., of which 6449l. on quarries; charities 2478l., of which Owen Jones's 466l., Oldfield's for apprenticing 405l., Broughton's 181l. Livings are, St. Bridget with St. Martin Rect. (Ches.) val. 150l., patr. Bishop; St. J. Baptist Vic. 237l., Marquis of Westminster, — church, once cruciform with a broken tower which fell 1574, on the site of Etheldred's abbey founded 906, is in part early norman with heavy pillars 5½ ft. in girth, was made collegiate and for a time the head of Lichfield diocese of which Chester was part, and has part of a lady chapel and a mon. of Falconer a native and a scholar; St. Michael and St. Olave Cbrs. 84l. and 89l., and St. Peter Rect. 120l., patr. of all, Bishops; these are within the city: partly without are, St. Mary-on-the-Hill Rect. 322l., Marq. of Westminster, — ch. early eng. with mons. of the Birkenheads, the four Holmesees antiquaries of Nunhill, and others; Holy Trinity Rect. 290l., Earl of Derby, — ch. has mons. of Parnell and Mat. Henry, whose chapel and pulpit still remain (in King St.); Little St. John Cwr. 164l., Corporation; St. Oswald Rect. with Bruera Cwr. 245l., Dean and Chap. — ch. is S. transept of cathedral; besides which are St. Paul Cwr. 150l., Vicar of St. John's; Christ Church Cwr. 100l., Bishop. The Cathedral, a heavy crumbling sandstone pile which requires frequent repair, is 348 ft. by 180, in decorated and later eng. styles, with nave and tower (127 ft.) b. 1486 by Abbots Ripley and Oldham, a fine W. front finished 1508 about the date of the choir; it contains some stone stalls in the chancel, St. Werburgh's shrine, now the Bp.'s throne, carved and adorned with little figures of mercian kings and saints, cartoon of Raphael on tapestry, brass of F. Aldersey and mon. of dean Smith translator of Xenophon, etc., and Archd. Travia. Within the precincts are remains of the abbey gate, the Bishop's palace built 1753, deanery on site of St. Thomas's, norman crypt under the prebendaries' houses, refectory now gram. school, cloisters, and a beautiful early eng. chapter-house, 50 ft. by 26 and 35 high (with a vestibule 33 by 27), b. 1128 by Randle 4th earl, where he and other earls and abbots were buried, and where 1724, the body of the 1st earl was found in a stone coffin. Within the castle which is held by patent, and of which the only original part remaining is Julius Caesar's (or Agricola's) tower, containing a chapel (with some frescoes), in which Jas. II. heard mass, was Hugh Lupus's hall, a fine piece of antiquity, 95 ft. by 45, pulled down 1786. In the armoury are 30,000 stand of arms and 90 cannon. The ancient walls which are 1½ m. 101 yds. in circuit, railed in at top where there is a walk broad enough for two persons, and commanding fine views of the country, the Wirrall, and the Welsh hills, were guarded by towers (b. 1422) of which the Phenix and Water towers still exist, and passes over the four city gates, — Eastgate (where Watling St. or Via Devana came in, and which was a genuine roman remain till replaced 1768), Northgate built 1810, Bridgegate 1782, Watergate 1778, and a fifth or postern. The celebrated 'Chester Mysteries' or Scripture Plays, composed in latin about 1250-60 by Randle a monk, and afterwards turned into english, were acted in the church by the city companies, for the edification of christian people; they were 25 in number, beginning with the Creation and ending with the Judgment. Besides the above foundations, there was a priory burnt 1118, a benedictine monastery, and 3 friaries. A statue of Pallas, some fine altars, baths — especially an entire one under the Plume of Feathers inn, — pavements and other roman remains have been found. Dr. Cowper (of Overleigh, an old seat with portraits of the Cromwells), Sir J. Vanbrugh (1666-1726), Molyneux and Brewwood the mathematicians, Bradshaw an early poet, Higden who wrote 'Polychronicon,' Dean Whittingham translator of the Geneva Bible, Kynaston and Downham divines, were natives; it supports the 'C. Chronicle,' 'C. Courant,' and 'Farmer's Herald' newspapers; and gives title to a herald. Part of the Ellesmere canal 9 m. long, cut by Telford 1806, unites Chester with the Mersey; another part of 20 m. cut 1778, goes to Nantwich. The river which runs red apparently from passing through the red sandstone, has been improved by cutting a new channel to the sea, and admits vessels of 350 tons — but the mouth is obstructed by shifting sands. In 1846, 117 sail of 6251 tons (59 being under 50 t. each) and 6 steamers of 385 t. (3 under 50 t.) belonged to the port, which has Bagilt, Flint, Mostyn, Rhuddlan, Wehra, for sub-ports; and the tonnage Inwards and Outwards, including repeated voyages, was 'coastwise' 1078 sail of 52,189 and 2571 of 115,177 tons (besides 6 steamers of 385 t. Inw. and Outw.), — from and to 'colonies' 12 of 2939 and 6 of 1679 t. — from and to 'foreign ports' 3 of 470 and 5 of 490 t. (besides 23 foreigners of 4816 and 2 of 160 t.); total customs 94,264l.; exports, cheese, etc. A rail. of 21 m. with 4 stations runs to Crewe, and forms a branch of the N. Western; another of 16 m. with 10 stations goes to Birkenhead; one of 61½ m. to Shrewsbury through Wrexham; and one is projected to Wolverhampton. Raton Hall, seat of Marq. of Westminster. Chest. and Holyhead rail. of 84½ m. made 1845-50, by R. Stephenson, goes from the station (a joint one for all the rails, h. by Thomson for 220,000*l.*, with a city front of 1010 ft., a passenger range of 1160 ft., good iron roof by Wylda, etc.), along the coast near Telford's road, past Flint 12½ m., Holywell 16½, Rhyl 30, Abergyle 25½, Penmaen Rhos tunnel (1629 ft.), Conway tubular br. 45½ (814 ft.), Penmaenmawr 50, R. Under the Reform act Sandwich, Dover, and Hastings, return two representatives (or barons) each as before, Rye and Hythe (5 ships) one each instead of two; Winchelsea, Romney, Seaford, which sent two each, are disfranchised; and the privileges of the freemen are curtailed; but the inhabitants are still exempt from county juries and the militia. Courts of Brotherhood (composed of mayors and jurats of the ports) and of Greeting (in which mayors and bailiffs of the members join) are held before the coronation, to choose the barons who carry the canopy over the sovereign's head; and occasionally, to appoint the bailiffs who look after their herring-fishery at Yarmouth. The Lord Warden, who is Constable of Dover Castle, has the supreme jurisdiction.

 P. M. J. COLCHESTER, locally in the above hund. 21 m. NE. of Chelmsford, 51 from London by E. Count. rail. where it joins the E. Union, a polling place (for N. Essex), petty sess. town, head of an excise district and bonding port on R. Colne, 12 m. from the sea, was the seat of Cunobiline (Shakespeare's 'Cymbeline'), king of the Trinobantes, — Camelodunum or Colonia of the Romans — Caer-Colon of the Britons, and the saxon Cole-Cestre, — and was taken A. D. 44 by Claudius, who settled the 2nd, 9th, and 14th legions here; destroyed by the Iceni under Boadicea — restored by the Romans, and made the residence of Constantius Chlorus — and seized by the Danes, from whom it was taken 921 by Edwd. the Elder; partly belonged at 'Domesdy.' to Eudo Dapifer, the Conqueror's sewer or steward, who b. the castle (on the site of an older one), and abbey; was occupied 1215 against John by Saher Earl of Winchester, and in 1218 by Louis the Dauphin; sent 5 ships to siege of Calais (Ed. III.); ravaged by the plague 1348, 1360, and again 1665; visited by Hen. VI. 1455, by Mary 1558, and Eliz. 1579; taken by Ld. Goring for Ch. I. 1648, but retaken by Fairfax, after a siege of 8 months, when Sir C. Lucas and Sir C. Lisle were shot, and the castle, etc. dismantled; — has returned two members to parl. from the time of Ed. I., the limits (including the 12 town para. below, with the outlying para. of Berechurch, Greenstead, Lexden, Mile End) being unaltered by the Reform act, — no. of electors 1257 (of 10l. houses 4349l.); was incorporated by Rd. I., and by the municipal act is divided, with reduced limits, into 3 wards (formerly 4), governed by a mayor, 6 ald., 18 council., with the style of "mayor and commonalty of boro' of C.," and a revenue of 3327l. Acres of boro' 11,770, — of town about 3600; pop. 17,790+162, employed in an umbrella silk factory (which has superseded the making of baizes first introduced by Flemings) — in the famous oyster fisheries at Pyfleet, etc., and in shipping trade (as below); houses 3865, on a gentle rise from the river, and many ancient, — with 10 or 11 churches, 7 chapels, new moot or town hall by Raphael (originally built by Eudo) for boro' sessions, with gaol underneath, new corn exchange by Raphael, co. house of correction, Exr. and co. hospital, theatre, library, medical and other societies, botanical garden, custom house, bonded yards, 2 banks, savings bk. (83,684l. from 2577 depositors), gas and water works, a very large distillery, 3 bridges, — gram. school (182l.) endowed by Eliz., with a scholarship at Camb., and where Parr was master, and Abp. Harnet (a native, 1561-1681) was educated, — St. M. Magdalen's hosp. (289l.) for 5, founded by Eudo for lepers, and refounded by Jas. I., — Winsley's (478l.), Winnock's (236l.), Kendall's (144l.), and Finch's (56l.) almshouses, — and Union poor house; assd. taxes 5713l.; poor r. 9345l. on 47,170l.; real prop. 64,468l.; charities 1681l. with a share in the loans to 24 corporate towns of Sir T. White of Bristol. Livings are: All Saints Rect. (Roch.) with St. Botolph Cwr. val. 312l, patr. Balliol Coll. Oxon., — church, of flint, b. before 1856, near remains of Greyfriars, — St. Botolph (priory) ch., chiefly norman, in ruins since the siege; St. James Rect. 150l., Ld. Chancellor, — ch. (Ed. II.) has tomb to Winsley, and 2 brasses of the Maynards (1569, etc.); St. Martin Rect. 102l, patr. (?) — ch. b. 1827, partly of roman brick, in ruins since the siege; St. Mary the Virgin or at the Walls Rect. 212l, Bp. London; St. Nicholas Rect. 92L, Balliol Coll., — ca. part in ruins; St. Peter Vic. 285L, Simeon's Trustees, — ca. is mentioned in 'Domesday' but modernised, with 4 brasses of the Sayers, etc. (from 1580); — all these are within the walls; — without are: St. Runwald Rect. 160L, C. Round, Esq.; Holy Trinity Rect. 158L, Balliol Coll., — ca. b. 1349, with tomb of Dr. Gilbert, a native and physician to Q. Eliz., who wrote on the magnet; St. Giles Rect. 190L, Rev. J. Morgan, rector, — ca. has mon. of the Lucases; St. Leonard Rect. 129L, Balliol Coll., — ca. ancient, had two chantries; St. M. Magdalen Vic. — L, Ld. Chancellor. Of the abbey found. 1096 by Eudo, who was buried in it, and which had a mitred abbot, with the privilege of sanctuary, and was val. at 524L, only the gateway (12th cent.) remains; it was battered down at the siege, as was also St. Botolph's priory — found. 1116 by Ernulph the first prior, and b. partly of roman bricks, for augustinian canons — being the earliest and the head of that order in England. Great part of the town walls, which form an oblong of about 108 acres, with 4 gates and 8 posterns, and are about 7 ft. thick, are gone. At one corner are the castle walls, 140 ft. by 102, and 11 to 80 ft. thick, built of flint, etc. with fragments of roman brick; parts of the tower, norman gateway, Sallyport, and chapel, are still standing. There are traces of greyfriars found. 1309 by Rob. Fitzwalter, but none of crutched friars, which was the earliest (1244) in England. St. Helen's church, said to have been found by Helena the mother of Constantine (whom some claim as a native, though he was born in Dacia), and daughter, as reported, of the british king Coel, or Coil ('old king Cole' of the song — see COLYTON), was reb. 1076 by Eudo, and is now the Friends' meeting house. Vessels of 150 tons come up to the "Hythe" or port, which extends to the Mersey stone. In 1846, 252 sail of 9258 tons (196 being under 50 t. each) belonged to the port, to which Brightlingsea is a sub-port; and the tonnage Inwards and Outwards, including repeated voyages, was 'coastwise' 763 of 49,925, and 562 of 24,742 tons, — from and to 'colonies' 5 of 655, and 2 of 628 t., — from and to 'foreign ports' 14 of 1024, and 15 of 1641 t. (besides 11 foreigners of 859, and 11 of 982 t.); total customs 14,220L, — the exports (val. — L) being corn, malt, etc., — and imports (val. — L) spanish wines, oilcake, timber, etc. From the camp at Lexden, british and roman ways went to London, Verulam, Cambridge (thence to Chester on Via Devana), and Caistor (Northampton). A temple was dedicated to Claudius — and pavements, with 'bushels of coins,' according to Morant, of every emperor, and many other antiquities, have been found. An old timber house built 1490, but dated 1090 by mistake, gave rise at one time to many disputes about the introduction of arabic numerals in England. It publishes the 'Essex Standard' newspaper; the E. Esc. militia have their head qrs. here. Powell, a divine, was a native, and speaker Abbot, born lord Colchester, who took his title hence, was lat. at All Saints rectory (1767-1829). C. and Sudbury rail. 12 m. long, incorp. with E. Union, goes from Marks Tey on E. Count. past Halestead to Sudb., and is to go to Clare (44 m.); reed. (June 1849) 196,760L, expend. 192,178L. Colch. P. L. Union, contains the boro' as above; cases relieved (years 1846-7) 2244 (out-door 1762), expend. 9346L, prop. rated 47,170L. Sup. Registry comprises the same; pop. 17,790 + 163. The New County Court district contains the registry, with those of Lexden, Winstreet, and Tendring, including Manningtree in that sub-district (the rest of which with Harwich and Thorpe sub-districts go to Harwich). The Earcie district includes Colchester, Maldon, Rayleigh, Billericay, Grays, Ingatestone, Chelmsford, Witham, Manningtree, Harwich, Coggeshall, Halstead, Braintree; and in 1835 had 50 officers, and collected 284,614L (each collector's round being 187 m.), of which 128,441L was on malt, 82,480L on spirits, 9011L on licenses, 8509L on bricks, 1369L on hops, 1071L on soap, etc. — and the total number of traders (4491) included 1838 dealers in tobacco, 1027 in tea, 965 in wine and spirits, 468 brewers and maltsters, 129 brick-makers. Mkt. D. (in place of 26 before the Union), viz. 2 for county (elect. 8626), 2 for Cork (as below), 1 each for Bandon, Kinsale, Mallow, Youghal (elect. 396, 858, 821, and 483); is governed by a lord-lieut. and custos, 24 deputy lieuts. and about 800 magistrates; is in the Munster circuit, the assizes being at Cork, — in the Cork military district, and the united diocese of

Cork, Cloyne, and Ross, with a small part of Ardfer and Aghadoe, province of Dublin. Gross rental 1,203,986l. or 13s. 1d. per acre; val. to poor r. 1,256,224l.; county rate ('48) 106,696l. Savings banks ('48) 4, with 825,624l. from 9656 depositors; loan funds 19, with a capital of 23,700l. and circulating 80,797l. Births 1 in 31; deaths 1 in 58 (in city 1 in 33), — the av. for Ireland being 55. Schools (national) in '48, 325 with 52,813 child. attending, — in 1841, 52,788 went to schools of all kinds, and 68 per cent. of pop. could not read or write; av. number of committals ('45-8) 8449, of whom 1581 were convicted. Surface hilly — the mountains, rivers, larger bays and headlands all ranging uniformly about ENE. and WSW. A range in continuation of the Knockmealdown passes between Ea. Lee and Blackwater, called the Nagle, Bograh, Mackerry or Derrysagart, Clanebright or Caha, Miskias mountains, — the highest points being Hungry Hill 2249 ft. (with a fall in wet weather of 800 ft.), Cahirbarna 2234, Knockinesa 1886; another chain S. of R. Lee towards Mizen hd., includes the Clargh hills, Shehy 1796 ft., Owen 1760, Mt. Gabriel 1835. Clay slate or brown stone is the substratum, with patches of primary limestone, which sometimes afforded veined marble near Bantry, Ross, Cork, Cove, Youghal, — quartz at the tops of the hills, — mountain limestone, grauwacke, and old red sandstone N. of R. Blackwater, and anthracite coal about Dromagh and Lisnacoon. Iron, though plentiful, is little worked for want of fuel, the woods being all burnt. Copper at Allihies and Audley employs 1400 to 1800 hands; lead, fullers' earth, potters' and brick clay are found. The climate is fine, the soil to W. and SW. poor and desolate — but reclaimable, with seaweed and sand; N. and E. it is rich and fertile, with good dairy land around Cork and on the Funcheon. Estates are large; the system of husbandry very indifferent, though improvements have followed the making of new roads in the interior near King Williamstown crown lands and elsewhere. Acres in crops ('48) 488,983, of which the chief are oats 123,474, potatoes 103,860, wheat 82,205, barley and rye 45,242, turnips 81,044, meadow and clover 97,778 — and the val. of live stock in '41, on 45,963 farms above 1 acre, was 2,017,911l., including 71,692 horses, 151,996 cattle (above 267,000 in '48), 258,836 sheep, 184,159 pigs, etc. The manufactures of flannels, friezes, etc. are chiefly for home use, and are otherwise of no importance. In 1847, a bad year, 181 hands were in the woolen factories. Other rivers besides the above are the Funcheon, Awbeg, Allo, Bride, Glashydure, Sullane, Martin, Owane, Beal, Arigadeen, Ilea. The only large lakes are the Gougane Barra (with St. Finbar's hermitage in it) and L. Alnea at the head of R. Lee, near Keim-an-eigh and Priest Leap passes, — and all in a lonely country. Among the antiquities are cromlechs at Castlemary, Castle Hyde, Derrineahir, Glanworth, Newmill, Temple Brien (partly turned into a church); round towers at Cloyne (seat of a diocese held by Berkeley) and Kinneigh; many square raths (called daniel); abbey or church ruins at Ballybeg, Bridgetown, Carigilly or St. Maure, Buttevant, Kilcra, Mourne (a preceptory), Timoleague, Tracton; castles, as the McCarthys' at Blarney (with its famous "blarney stone"), Lohort, Kilcra, Carrigapooka (with part of a cromlech) — the Desmonds', at Mogeely, Mallow, — the Roches' at Glanworth, Carrigabrickly, Lyclash, Rathby, Duneen, Castletown-roche, Shippool, — the Barrys' at Buttevant, Lisacrol, — Barret's at

Ballinacoley, — Condons' at Clogleagh, — O'Sullivan's at Dunbeg, — O'Donovan's at Banduff, — Mahony's at Dunmanus, — the O'Driscols' at Cape Clear, Baltimore, and L. Hyne (near which is St. Bridget's pillar stone), — M'Donogh's at Kanturk, — M'Sweeny's at Clodagh, — Spencer's at Kilcoleman, where he wrote his 'Faery Queen,' etc. and was visited by Raleigh — others at Macroom, Cahirdirry, Carrigadrohid, Dundaneere, Blackrock (modern), Ballyvireen (old manor house). At Youghal, Raleigh, who was mayor, planted the first potatoes at his house, which still stands, — and hence he sailed on his last voyage; Curran was born at Newmarket; Sullivan the horse-whisperer lived at Kanturk; and at Sheeherinkey is a cave $\frac{1}{2}$ m. long. Some of the seats are: Earl Bandon Cast. Bernard, E. Mountcashel Moorepark, E. Shannon Castlemartyr, E. Listowel Concannonore, E. Kingston Mitchelstown, Vict. Bearhaven Bantry Ho., Vict. CORNWALL (25-6, 29-33) a seaside county, W. of R. Tamar, SW. corner of England, the Cassiterides or "tin islands" of the Phœnicians and Greeks, was the seat of the Cornabii, Cornavii (or Cornubians, from 'kernou' a horn, or 'carn' a hill), a branch of the Demonii in the roman Britannia Prima—became a separate British kingdom 446 under Vortigern, till overrun by the Saxons (who called it Weallas—from 'gael' or 'walsch,' a stranger), first in 818 under Egbert, 892 under Alfred, and 927-88 under Athelstan, who made it part of Wessex,—was ravaged by the Danes 806 and 877-81, who partially settled upon it, and was created a duchy in the person of the Black Prince 1329, now held by the Prince of Wales, — is watered by the Lynher, Looe, Fowey, Camel, and other small streams, — and bordered by Devon. (E.), and the sea (N., W., and S.). Length from Porthleven, near Helston, N.E. to Launceston 58 m., greatest breadth 46, av. ditto 22; relative size 230-10,000ths; circuit about 265 m. including 200 of coast, along which are Cawsand bay in Plymouth sound, Kame head, Looe harb. and id., Fowey harb., Greben hd. beacon near St. Austell's bay, Deadman pt. (879 ft. high), St. Anthony's pt. and light near Falmouth harb. (anc. Cenionis Ostia), Manacles rocks between Helford creek and Black hd., the Lizard and light — the most S. point of England (lat. 49° 57' 41") whence ships take their departure, with the Stags rocks off it, St. Michael's mt. (anc. Ictis, and tin depôt) 281 ft. high in Mount's bay near Penzance, Logan rock near Tol Peden Penwith cave, off which are the Rundestone and Wolf rocks, Land's End (anc. Antivestium) the most W. point of England (long. 5° 42'), — off which are Longships rock and light, the Seven stones and floating light, and (25 m. SW. by W.) St. Mary's (the largest of the Scilly isls.) and light, — Cape Cornwall (trap), St. Ives's bay (trap cliffs), St. Agnes' hd., Towan bay, Trevoze hd., Padstow harb., Port Isaac, Tintagel hd., and Bude harb., — raised beaches being visible in Mount's bay and along the N. coast, which has no good harbour, and on which the sand gains from St. Ives to Padstow. It contains 1830 sq. m. or 851,200 acres (849,200 by addition of par.) exclusive of Scilly isls. (5570 acres), of which 700,000 are arable, meadow, etc., the rest moorland; 841,279 + 4034 persons, of whom 71,927 are in Gwennap, St. Austell, Camborne, Kenwyn, Penzance, Illogan, St. Agnes, St. Just, — 176,522 are females, 167,328 under 20 yrs. of age, 828,624 born in county, — 81,723 or 9·3 per cent. live by commerce, trade, manufact. (27,008 being miners), 26,862 or 7·9 per cent. in agricult. (8201 being farmers, graziers), — 2349 educated professions, 9079 are independent, 68,500 labourers and servants, besides others; 65,574 houses, exclusive of 5918 empty and building; 9 hundreds (7 at 'Domesdy.') in two divisions, — E. Div. containing Stratton, Lesnewth, Trigg, and part of Pyder on N. coast, and East (in three parts), West, and E. Powder on S. coast, with Bodmin for election town, and that coast and St. Austell, Callington, Camelford, Launceston, Stratton, for polling places, — W. Div. containing part of Pyder, and Penwith on N. coast, and W. Powder, and Kerrier on S. coast, with Truro for election town, and that and Helston, Penzance, Redruth, for polling places; 203 parishes (the largest being St. Neot's) besides parts of 3 others, and 2 ext. par. places; 246 towns, vila, etc.; about 28 market towns,—Bodmin and Launceston assize towns, Truro (sessions), St. Austell, St. Columb, Falmouth, Helston, Liskeard, Penzance, Redruth, Camelford*, Stratton, St. Agnes (?), Callington*, Camborne, St. Daye, Fowey*, Gram-pound* (?), St. Ives, E. Looe*, Lostwithiel* (sessions), St. Mawes (?), Marazion or Market-jew, Padstow, Penryn, Saltash, Treigny*, Wade-bridge — the first 10 being new County Courts, the first 12 poor law Unions along with St. Germans*; returns fourteen members to Parl. (instead of 44 as formerly, i. e. 2 for county and 2 each for 21 boroughs, including Newport, St. Michael's, W. Looe, Bossiney, and those marked *, all disfranchised by the Reform act, — except Gram-pound in 1821), viz. 2 each for E. and W. Cornwall (pop. 165,864, and 175,634, — electors 6917 and 5212), 2 each for Bodmin, Penryn (with Falmo'), and Truro (elect. 401, 950, and 624), 1, instead of 2, each for Helston, St. Ives, Launceston, Liskeard (elect. 878, 589, 866, and 833); is governed by a lord lieut., 35 deputy lieuts., and about 125 magistrates; is in the W. circuit and Western military district, and constitutes an archb. in dioc. of Exeter, province of Canterbury. Real prop. (1815) 922,259L, ('43) 1,353,261L — of which 178,017L on mines, 10,964L on quarries, 8932L on iron works, 11,478L on canals; ditto rentals, 566,338L, or 13s. 8½d. per acre (when wheat was 77s.) and 774,692L, or 18s. 2d. per acre (wheat 55s.); county income ('48) 11,060L, of which 9081L from co. rate (not laid on any existing valuation, but derived from a single rate of 12½ 14s. on the several pars., etc. of a long date back), 2814L from the Treasury. Poor r. (1846-7) for 13 unions 86,944L on 976,209L, or 1s. 8½d. in the £. (wheat being 59s.), — cases relieved 28,508 (out-door 24,930) in estimated pop. of 368,184. Total charities 5252L, of which 929L for schools and education; savings bks. ('49) 9, with 465,418L from 12,004 depositors; in yr. '88-9, 8978 m. of road (885 m. being turnpike) were maintained for 28,612L. In '46-7, out of 228 pars. 206 had 374 church schools, supported by 8192L with 20,445 child. attending, and 465 paid teachers (79 being monitors) whose salaries were 6562L and who had 123 teachers' houses: out of these 8 were free schools and 62 sund. sch. (exclusively, — with 586 teachers, and 6887 child.); and 178 in union with the National Soc. had 12,978 child. and total grants of 4802L. Offenders in '48, 273 (or 287 av. of 5 yrs.), of whom 177 were convicted, 68 were females, 17 under 15 yrs. of age, 86 could not read or write. Following the 14 Sup. Registry districts of '45 (total pop. 843,821 + 4078), the 'births' were 11,847, of whom 5461 were females, 576 or 5·1 per cent. illegit.; 'deaths' 6017 or 1 in 52, — the all-England av. being 46; 'marriages' 2577 (at church 2264), of which 2338 persons, or 45·4 per cent. signed with marks. The chief rock, which is killas or clay slate belonging to the 'Devonian' or old red sandstone formation, with limestones, and elvan or porphyry bands, — is intersected by a ridge of granite (called moorstone and growan) running N.E. and SW. through the county, and rising into rugged masses at Brown Willey 1868 ft. (the highest point), Carraton Down 1208, Hensbarrow 1029, Carn Bonellis 822, Carn Brae 697, Sennen at Land's End 887, etc. Near the granite are found the tin and copper, the staple riches of the county, — which numbers about 200 mining concerns, many called Huel or Wheel, i. e. a work or pit, and mostly lying between St. Austell's and St. Just's, with a capital of 2,440,000L, employing in one way and another about 50,000 persons. Produce of the tin mines, which were worked by the Phenicians long before Christ (tho' not noticed in "Domesday" from the commotions which raged) is 5000 tons at 70*l.* per ton, chiefly from St. Agnes, St. Austell, etc.; of copper, not worked much before 1700, 10,000 tons at 95*l.*, from St. Clear and Calstock in "eastern" district, which takes in Gwennap and Redruth (see that for the Consolidated Mine), Camborne and Illogan, Gwinear, etc.,—and from Huel Vor (i.e. great work), and St. Just's in "western" dist. St. Austell is also a mining district; and Launceston (for Blackmore), Lostwithiel (for Frymore), Helston (for Kerrier), but chiefly Truro (for Tywarnhaile), and Penzance (for Penwith), are obsolete stannary courts, to which the metal was brought to be stamped before the repeal of the duties 1837, and which sent members to the Stannary parl., whose duties are now performed by a vice-warden at Truro. A strip of carboniferous limestone with slate and flagstone lines the Attery down to Launceston,—and to the N. is a bed of millstone grit, with culm, and coal plants. Lead is wrought at Helston, slate at Liskeard and Denbyhole near Tintagel hd., china stone at Stephen's, soap rock or steatites (used in porcelain) near the Lizard in the serpentine, along with asbestos; good building stone, and iron, cobalt, arsenic, zinc or spelter, bismuth, mundick or pyrites, are found in several places,—indeed almost every kind of mineral is to be had, and large collections are seen at Menabilly and Scorrier Ho. The climate is mild and equal, and the soil though sterile on the moorlands, is fruitful in the valleys and many parts on the sea, where, being well manured with sand, shells, weed, pilchards, it yields good crops of naked barley or piller (70 to 80 bush. per acre sometimes), wheat, and potatoes—of the last, about Penzance, 800 to 600 bush. per acre have been raised. Cattle and sheep are crossed with Devon breeds, and mules are reared for walking the hills. Farms are small, and let from 7 to 21 yrs., or on leases of three lives; farm buildings middling; and agriculture, which is secondary to mining, is backward but improving. From July to September, the people on the coast from Looe round to Padstow, turn fishermen for pilchards, of which about 21,000 hogsheads are produced chiefly for exportation; red mullet, turbot, mackerel, conger eel, oysters, etc., are caught. A few woollens are made at Callington, etc., for home consumption. Besides the rivers above, there are the Fal, Hël, Hëyl or Hayle—all short and unimportant except for the harbours at their mouths; and a holy well at St. Keyne. On the coast are found the cornish chough and other wild-fowl, fine-coloured sands, corals, and many aquatic and other plants—as fuci, conferve, ulvæ or laver, gentian, samphire, wild flax, sweet briar (Land's End), and myrtle—while the whortleberry, heath, valerian, service, etc., are found inland.—Among the antiquities, are druid remains, as the Hurlers, Cheesewring, and a cromlech near St. Cleer which has a famous holy well, Piran Round near St. Agnes, Menamber logan stone near Helston, Dance Maen and other circles round St. Burian, Carnbrae near Redruth, i.e. Tre-druiith or druid's town—though many stones called druidical here and elsewhere, seem to be purely natural; Chun Castle and Cast. an Dinas—either british or the work of the Danes who have left many barrows, etc. on the hills; castles at Launceston, Trematon, Lostwithiel, Restormel—all belonging to the old earls of C.,—also Pengerswick, St. Michael's Mount, Tintagel or K. Arthur's, who was a native; old churches at Probus (fine tower), Truro, St. Neot's

(with many stained windows), Duloe (with slate sculptures), St. Germain's and Bodmin (both old cathedrals); priory ruins at Rialton; hermitage at St. Roche. Around the Scilly isles, which number 140 now, but only 10 in Strabo's time, remains of buildings are seen in the water, and the tract towards the main, it is said, was swallowed up about 1099. On the Gilstone, Sir C. Shovell and 4 ships were lost. At Camelford, K. Arthur fell, 542, after killing his false nephew Mordred; and Sir R. Hopton beat the parl. forces at Stratton 1643. At Mousehole, Dolly Pentraeth, the last cornish-speaking native, died 1788; and a descendant of the Constantine emperors is buried at Llandulph. St. David was a native of Alternon, the good knight Sir Tristram of Carlyon, Earl of Chatham of Boconnoc, Davy of Penzance. Borlase, who wrote the co. history, died at Ludgvan, Polwhele at Manaccan. Some of the seats are: Earl of Mt. Edgecumbe Cotehele (very ancient) and Mt. Edgecumbe (which belongs to Devon) Duke of Leeds Godolphin, D. of Northumberland Werrington, Earl St. Germain's Port Elliot, Earl Falmouth Tregothnan, Baroness Basset Tetbury, Lord Clinton Trefusis, Ld. Treffry and Trerice are very old mansions. Short canals are cut from Bude Haven to Launceston, with a branch to Holsworthy; and from St. Cleer and Liskeard to St. Looe; and rails for mining purposes run from Blisland and Bodmin to Wadebridge, Roche to St. Blazey, St. Austell to Pentewan, St. Ives bay to Camborne, Redruth, and Perranarworthal, with branches to Pontreath and Godolphin. Roads from Bodmin are: 1. Along the moors to Alternon 11, Launceston 19, thence to Oakhampton 37, 2. To St. Breward 7, Camelford 11, Davidston 15, Stratton 27. 3. Liskeard 18 (thence to Callington 21, Tavistock 81), Castle French 17, Saltash 25, Plymouth 30; or St. Germain's 21, Torpoint, opposite Devonport, 27; or to Boconnoc 8, E. Looe 18. 4. Lostwithiel 5 (Fowey 11), St. Blazey 10, St. Austell 14; or by Hensbarrow to Austell 10, thence to Gramppound 15, Gregory 18, St. Maw's, opposite Falmo', 27. 5.  P. M. S. COVENTRY, city (53) a county of itself, lies in Knightlow hund. N. Warwick. a station on N. West. rail. 94 m. from London, or 91 by road, a polling place, excise collection, the centre of the ribbon trade, and sometime the seat of a bishopric jointly with Litchfield, on R. Sherborne, takes its name (Conventre, i. e. convent town) from the priory found. about 1043 on the site of St. Osburgh's nunnery (which the Danes destroyed 1016), by Earl Leofric and his famous wife Godiva, who, according to the common story, procured for it many privileges by riding naked through the streets; came at the Conquest to the earls of Chester, who built the castle at Cheylesmore the seat of Leofric, and thence to the Crown; was walled by Edw. III. when it had a prosperous cap and clothing trade, and the fine steeple of St. Michael's was built; was appointed by Rich. II. for the combat between Duke of Norfolk and Duke of Hereford, who afterwards 1404 as Hen. IV. held here his 'parl. indocorum' (all lawyers being shut out); visited 1436, 1450, 1456, by Hen. VI. to see the religious plays, hocktide sports, and other pageants for which it was celebrated, and again 1459 to hold what the attainted Yorkists called the 'parl. diabolicum'; visited 1474 by Edw. IV. after defeating the Lancastrians, by Rich. III., by Hen. VII. after the battle of Bosworth Field, by Hen. VIII. Eliz. Jas. I. and II.; garrisoned for parl. 1642, for which it was dismantled by Ch. II.;—has returned two members to parl. from Hen. VI.'s time (occasionally from Edw. I.), the limits which comprise the 3 pars. below (except Radford and Keresley hmts.), being unaltered by the Reform act,—no. of electors 4056 (of 107. houses 7635); was first chartered by Edw. III. and by the late act is divided into 6 wards (formerly 10), governed by a mayor, 12 ald. 36 council with the style of "may. bailiffs, commonality of city of C." and revenue of 17,074L. Acres of city 4920,—of county, as above; pop. 30,743 + 367, in the manufacture of silk (which employs 1855 hands), ribbons (1807), and clocks and watches (831),—2669 being set down as "weavers" merely, and some colliers; houses 4920, in narrow streets, with many old fashioned timbered buildings, 8 churches, 8 chapels,—a venerable structure called St. Mary's Hall or Guildhall, of the 15th cent. in which is the ancient banquetting room 63 ft. by 30, with timbered roof and fine N. window, and full of portraits, inscriptions, and coats of arms of kings, warriors, mayors, churchmen, also stained windows, chair of state, minstrel's gallery, suits of armour, and Hen. VI.'s tapestry 80 ft. by 10,—county hall (1785), mayor's parlour where sessions are held, house of correction and gaol, corn, cattle, and pig mkt., Draper's hall reb. 1832, 3 banks, savings bk. (68,509L from 3290 depositors), gas-works, pub. library, theatre, cavalry barracks on site of Bull Inn where Mary Q. of Scots was confined,—house of industry or poorhouse, a fine old building built for the white friars monastery by Ld. Mayor Poultney, and added to by the Haleses who received Q. Eliz. here,—Hales' free gram. school (once the chapel of St. John's hosp. found. by Prior Laurence) with 1070L income, 5 exhibitions, 3 fellowships, and 1 scholarship attached, and in which Dugdale the antiquary was educated,—general hosp., the Bablake hosp. and school found. 1350, in which are Bond's almsh. (1001L) and Wheatley's school (887L), Baker's Cow-Lane school (400L), also Southern's (89L), Bayley's (154L), Fairfax's (72L), and girls' blue coat (134L) schools. grey friars or Ford's (394L) hosp., an old timbered house. Ascd. taxes 6658L; poor r. 6434L on 75,045L; real prop. 148,996L, of which 10,763L on canal and 1965L on mines; charities 9440L, of which Sir T. White's for loans, etc. 2661L, Holy Trinity church lands 847L, Moore's 495L, Wale's 262L. Livings are: St. Michael Vic. (Worc.) val. 472L, patr. Crown,—church, later eng. (Ed. III.—Hen. VI.), had 8 chantries, and has an old font, 2 brasses (from 1594), and a beautiful steeple (called a "masterpiece" by Wren) b. 1373-95 by the Botoners, the tower being 168 $\frac{1}{2}$ ft. including the octagon of 32 $\frac{1}{2}$ on 8 springs, from which rises the spire of 1304 ft., or about 300 ft. total; Holy Trinity Vic. 700L, Ld. Chancellor,—ch. cruciform, and later eng. belonged to the priory, with 6 chantries attached, and has a stone pulpit, brass lectern, tomb of P. Holland who translated Camden's 'Britannia' and many other books, and wrote a folio with 'one sole pen', portraits of Leofric and Godiva, and a steeple of 237 ft., rebuilt 1667, which with St. Michael's forms the most conspicuous marks for the city; St. John Rect. val. 83L, Corporation, is held by master of gram. school,—ch. cruciform (Ed. III.), on site of Bablake chapel; these are the city pars.;—the cws. are Christchurch 179L, Vic. of St. Michael's ch. b. 1832, has the old spire of Grey friars (1358) in which they acted their mysteries; St. Peter 150L, Vic. of Hol. Trinity; St. Thomas 180L, Crown and Bishop; and Keresley. The cathedral, b. 1095, and pulled down along with the priory by Hen. VIII. stood at Hill Close,—this place being the Bp.'s seat from 1102 to 1188; some traces of the old palace are visible near St. Michael's. A fine mkt. cross b. 1554, 57 ft. high, with 18 niches, was taken down 1771. Three gates out of 12 (of which the finest was Spon gate), and parts of the walls, which had 32 towers, are remaining, and there are some fragments of Sponleper's hosp. founded by the earls of Chester. The grey friars, the chief actors in the pageants and mysteries, and probably the authors of the Godiva legend, settled here 1234; the white friars 1342. It was ravaged by the plague six times from 1350 to 1625; in 1555 and before, Sanders and 9 others suffered martyrdom. Roman coins and a pavement have been found. Vincent the franciscan, William the carmelite, Maklesfield the dominican, Bp. Bird, Crawford a divine, Wanley the antiquary (whose father was vicar), Carte the antiquary and father of the historian, and Tipplers who brought out a Ladies' Diary, were natives; it publishes the 'C. Herald,' and 'C. Standard,' and gives title of earl to the Coventrys of Croom Court, of whom was the whig Ld. Keeper on whose behalf the 'Coventry Act' was passed in Ch. II.'s time. On Trinity Friday the procession takes place in which Lady Godiva figures, and the effigy of Peeping Tom with a pigtail, etc. ornamenting the corner of High St. is fresh painted. The phrase "to send to Coventry," seems to have originated with military men, who at one time were kept at a distance by the inhabitants. Whitley Hall, seat of Ld. Hood; Charter House, E. Inge, Esq. once the Carthusian priory; Stivichall, F. Gregory, Esq.; Coombe Abbey, Earl Craven. *C. ('49) 7, with 262,041L from 8978 depositors. In yr. '38-9, 2218 m. of road (296 m. being turnpike) were maintained for 10,810L. In '46-7, out of 152 para. 187 had 312 church schools, supported by 9107L, with 16,245 child. attending, and 826 paid teachers (33 being monitors), whose salaries were 7846L, and who had 98 teachers' houses: out of these 8 were free schools, and 42 sund. sch. (exclusively, — with 609 teachers and 5447 child.); and 66 in union with the National Soc. had 5849 child. and total grants of 2649L. Offenders in '48, 180 (or 181 av. of 5 yrs.), of whom 106 were convicted, 84 were females, 4 under 15 yrs. of age, 37 could not read or write. Following the Sup. Registry districts of '45 (total pop. 178,088 + 854), the births were 5824, — of whom 2850 were females, 647 or 11.1 per cent. illegit.; deaths 3502, or 1 in 51, — the av. being 46; marriages 1116 (at church 910), of which 581 persons, or 25.1 per cent. signed with marks. A strip of carboniferous limestone and millstone grit runs through by Penrith, Irby, Cockermouth, — bordered by one of coal, which widens thence along the coast from Maryport to Whitehaven. Another strip forms naked moorland on the NE. border from Alston moor to Nichol forest, watered by innumerable burns and springs which swell in winter, — with few houses, but thousands of black-faced sheep and grouse (see 'Guy Mannering'). Between these sandstone prevails in great plenty, except about Carlisle, where coal and limestone are found; and to the SW. the fell district of Copeland (cop. a head) is chiefly mica and chlorite slate or blue rag, with sandstone along the coast, occasional masses of granite at Ravensglass, Ulleswater, R. Caldew, etc., and trap, porphyry, whinstone, at Ennerdale, etc. The mines (employing 8640 hands) are: coal, worked at Talkin fells, Maryport, Workington, Whitehaven, where they are 800 ft. deep, running right under the sea; lead, with some silver, at Alston moor (40 mines), Patterdale, Buttermere; iron, at Crowgarth (vein 24 ft. thick), Langnor, Millom; wad, or black lead, at Borrowdale, the only place in Engld. Almost every other mineral is found (specimens being collected at Keswick), as limestone at Overend, Catlands, Gialand Spa (with many fossils); brown marble at Lip Stainton, Dacre, green at Crosse-fell, yellow on R. Peterill, blue at Kirkoswald; gypsum at Hesket, Newbiggin; soap stone at Hill Top, St. John's, Langnor; asbestos at North-end; porcelain clay and tripoli at Barrock, — besides fluor and other spars, quartz, garnet, cornelian, jasper, jet, in various parts; copper at Caldbeck, Hesket, Newlands; and traces of black jack, zinc, cobalt, antimony, manganese, etc., are seen elsewhere. The principal lakes (covering about 20,000 acres) and mountains, of which Keswick is the centre, are: Ulleswater (the largest and most striking) 10 m. ESE, on Westmorland border, at the R. Eamont's head; Thirlmere (the highest — 546 ft. above sea), 5 m. SE., on R. Greta, under Helvelyn (8055 ft. high) and Borrowdale fells; Derwentwater (the most beautiful), close to Keswick, on R. Derwent, with Lowdore fall of 160 ft., under Causey Pike (2040 ft.), Griadale Pike (2756 ft.), and others; Wast water and Sparkling Tarn, on R. Ir. (where pearl muscels were found), and Burmoor Tarn, on R. Eak, 15 to 18 m. SSW., under the Pillar (2898 ft.), near Gt. Gobbil (2925 ft.), Glaramara, Bow Fell (2911 ft.), Wry Nose, Hard Knot (where Lanc., W. Lanc., Cumbld. meet), Scafell (double-headed, 8166 ft., — the highest), and Scares fell; Ennerdale water, 12 m. SW. by W., on R. Ehen, in Copeland, under Dent fell (1115 ft.), the Steeple, Haycock, etc.; Buttermere, Crum-moor, and Lowes water, on R. Cocker, 8 m. SW. by W., under Red Pike (2850 ft.), the Robinson, Blake fell; Basenthwaite water, on R. Derwent, 4 m. NW., under Skiddaw (3022 ft.), with a view across England, over the Irish Sea, and into Scotland, etc.; Over water, on the smaller R. Eden, 7 m. NNW., under High Pike (2011 ft.), in the Caldbeck fells; Scales Tarn, under Saddleback (2789 ft.), and Souter fell, where something like the Brocken spectre was seen 1744. Near the S. Esk is Devock water, under Stainton fell; further S., near the Dudden, is Black Comb (1919 ft.); on Alston moor is Cross fell (2901 ft.), where the Helm wind is felt in winter, and Hartside, Roderup fells, etc. Other rivers besides the above are Ellen, Waver, Wampool, Petteril, Line, Gelt. Salmon are caught in the Solway, Eden, and at Workington, — trout, carp, char, in the lakes (with wildfowl at times) and streams, — flounders, cod, etc., along the coast. Grouse are shot on the moors; the eagle is now rarely seen in the mountains. About 5900 hands are employed in the manufactures, which are chiefly, cotton at Carlisle, coarse linens, sail-cloth (Whitehaven, etc.), paper (on the rivers), woollen (Keswick), earthenware, iron, copperas, etc. — In 1847, a bad year, 2802, 806, 688, hands were in the cotton, woollen and worsted, and flax mills, respectively. Agriculture is improving; butter is sent to market from Alston moor, — the cows yielding a cwt. in the season. Farms, small and numerous, and many let by customary tenure, but some on lease; the buildings are of stone, and thatched; the farmers, called lairds and 'statesmen' (i.e. estatesmen), a hardy, contented race, — many being horse-dealers towards the N., where the independence of the free-spirited moor-trooper still survives. Chief crops, wheat, oats, turnips; stock of sheep 400,000, yielding 10,000 woolpacks; cattle of the long and short horned breeds. Good mutton is to be had at Keswick, and Longtown is famous for the cranberries which grow on the moors. Many bog and heathy plants are native, with some aquatic on the coast. Among the antiquities are druid circles, etc., at Grey Yanda, Long Meg and her daughters, Giant's Grave and Thumb near Penrith, Motherby, Egremont, Gutterby, Keswick, Black Comb (two or three circles), Souden head (logan stone and barrow), Carrock fell (cairn); remains of stations on the Wall or Walls, which enter near Gileland spa, and run close to each other for 25 m., — at Burdoswald (Amboglanna), Cambeck fort or Castle steads (Petrian), Watchcross (Aballaba), Stanwicks (Congwata), Carlisle (Lugvalium), Burgh (Asclodunum), Drumburgh (Gabrocentum) where Hadrian's wall ends, Bowness (Tinnocellum), on the Solway, the termination of Severus's, — besides stations in other parts, at Netherby (Castra Exploratum, where many inscriptions, etc., have been found), Bewcastle (which has an old danish obelisk), Old Carlisle (Olenacum), Moreaby (Arbeia), Old Penrith, Ellenboro' (Viroxidum, many inscriptions at Nether Hall), Papcastle (Derevedo), also an inscription on the rock over the Gelt near Brampton; abbeyes, etc. at Llanercost, Wetheral, Holm Cultram, Calder, St. Bee's (old church and the college), Bridekirk (very old font); castles at Rockcliffe (the Ratcliffes), Liddell's Strength, Scaley, Naworth (Belted Will Howard's), Cast. Hewin, Kirkoswald, Penrith, Dacre, Sowerby, Highhead, Wulstey (Michael Scott's), Cockermouth, Egremont, Millom, — besides many towers, or Peel houses, on the border, 8 or 4 stories high, with one room in each, and used as retreats in the forays which were carried on till Jas. I. came to England (see the 'Abbot'). The first Ld. warden for the W. Marches was Rob. de Clifford, appointed 1296, and the principal 'harryings' by one party or another were by the Dunes 871, 1081; Athelstan 987; Edm'd. I. 945; Ethelred 1001; the Conqueror 1069; the Scots in 1185, 1216 (under Will. the Lion), 1297, 1811 and 1822 (under Bruce), 1819 and 1827 (under Douglas), 1887, 1842, 1880, 1887, 1824, 1842, when they were beaten at Solway moss. It was traversed by the Pretender 1745, and by the royal forces in pursuit of him, under Will. duke of Cumberland, the first of that title, now held by king of Hanover. At Burgh on Sands, Edw. I. died; and Whitehaven was attacked 1778, by Paul Jones. The principal seats are: Earl Lonsdale Whitehaven Cast., Duke of Norfolk Goscarrow Pt. (with Arall in it), Bp. of Carlisle Rose Cast., Earl Carlisle Naworth, Lord Muncaster Muncaster Cast., Vane, Bt. Armthwaite Hall, Brisco, Bt. Crofton Place, Senhouse, Bt. Hensingham Hall, Graham, Bt. The Hall, built 15th cent. by Duke John, on a massive scale, is a venerable structure, and has some good paintings, with fine prospects.

DARTMOOR FOREST quarter (25) Lidford par. S. Devon. 6 m. NE. of Tavistock. Acres 53,900; pop. 983. Living, a Cwr. (Exet.) val. —l., patr. —. This is part of the great moor between Oakhampton, Tavistock, SW. rail, Ashburton, and Moreton Hampstead, 20 m. long, 9 to 12 broad, and about 120,000 acres, belonging to duchy of Cornwall. It consists of rugged and broken granite peaks or tors, of which the highest are, Yes tor 2050 ft. (?), Coeson or Cawsorn hill 1792 ft., Rippon tor 1549 ft., Butterton hill 1208 ft.; some are apparently druidical (as the Grey Wethers), and many were used as beacons. The Dart (at Cran-meer), Teign, Tavy, Taw, Plym, Cad, Erme, and Yealm, rise here, besides nearly 50 smaller streams. Micaceous iron ore, and stream tin, are found; copper and tin mines are worked; sheep pastured by the Venville (i.e. fen field) tenants, and peat dug for fuel in the bogs, which abound with fallen trees — the only remains of K. John's forest, except a few dwarf oaks, ash, etc. to be seen here and there. It was once better peopled, Lydford, on the W. side, being the capital and chief stannary town, but now decayed. At Crockerne tor, the stannary parliament is still held; Brent tor has an old church at the top; at Prince Town, under Tor Royal, at the height of 1400 ft., a large prison was b. 1808 — afterwards turned into a factory for extracting naphtha, ammonia, grease for candles, etc. from the bog — now to be used for convicts, and whence the D. rail 25 m. long, made 1819, runs down to Plymouth. Mr. Morgan's hounds, and Mr. Newton's and the Forest harriers, meet here. Fair, at Two Bridges, 1st Wed. after 16 Aug.

County income ('48) 95791, of which 46881 from co. rate (on a val. of 282,7091. made 1833), 28741 from police r., 15601 from Treasury. Poor r. (1846-7) for 8 unions, 30,6441 on 334,9811 or 1s. 10d. in the £. (wheat being 59s.) — cases relieved 6261 (out-door 5700) in estimated pop. of 71,058. Total charities 43611, of which 12631 for schools and education; savings bks. ('49) 8, with 59,0691 from 2464 depositors; in '38-9, 1394 m. of road (212 m. being turnpike) were maintained for 42031. In '46-7, out of 76 pars. 62 had 85 church schools, supported by 24811 with 5726 children attending, and 81 paid teachers, whose salaries were 20781, and who had 39 teachers' houses; out of these 26 were free schools, and 11 sund. sch. (exclusively, — with 221 teachers and 2294 child.); and 50 in union with the National Soc. had 4113 child. and total grants of 20781. Offenders in '48 115 (or 82 av. of 5 yrs.), of whom 78 were convicted, 24 were females, 2 under 15 yrs. of age, 45 could not read or write. Births, etc., — see N. WALES. The prevailing rocks are the clay and grauwacke slates of the silurian system, and the surface is generally hilly, especially on the W., where a barren range called Hiraethrog mountains, covered with small sheep, black cattle and grouse, rises 1660ft. at Modwl Eithan, near which are llyns, or lakes, Aled and Alwen, where those streams rise; N. is Moel Ucha 1234 ft.; SW. is Carnedd-y-Filiast 2127 ft.; S. is M. Bronhanog 1572, and (at the head of the Clwyd) M. Enlli and M. Morvydd, both 1767 ft., — thence round to Flint, border, Cyrn-y-Brain 1857, Moel Famman 1845, M. Arthur 1491, near Bwlch Agricole or Agricola's Pass. In the trough of these hills is the fruitful and healthy Vale of (or Ystrad) Clwyd 20 m. by

7, on a bed of new red sandstone, bordered by a strip of mountain limestone on the E. and on the W. — where it runs NW. to Gt. and Lit. Orme's Heads (both in Cunawen), past Denbigh and Abergele, with occasional veins of lead, and is watered by the Aled, Elwy, and other branches of the Clwyd. S. of the Dee are Cader Ferwyn 2563 ft. Moel Fera 2108 ft., in the Berwyn range. On the E. is the Wrexham and Chirk coal-field (some seams 9 to 15 ft. thick), on a bed of millstone grit, with iron, at Ruabon, Brymbo, etc.; slate is quarried at Llangollen and near Chirk; limestone and building stone in the hills, where good peat is also cut; lead at Minera, etc. Agriculture is in a middling state, — oats, barley, wheat, the chief crops; and lean cattle, with some butter and cheese, are sent to market. Woollen web, or small cloths, are made in the Glyn (S. of Chirk), and stockings about Llanrwst — the seat for native karpe; gloves and cotton at Denbigh, paper at Chirk; in '47 (a bad year) 805 persons were in the woollen mills. Salmon are caught in the rivers, which with the above are Aled, Alen, Alwen, Elwy, Clettwr, Clewydog, Ceiriog, Tanat, and Rhaidr, which has a fall of 200 ft.; Llandegla and Llan St. Sior have mineral waters. Some of the native plants are: cardamine bellidifolia ladies' smock, insula heterium elecampane, near Denbigh; myrica, or dutch myrtle; sorbus aucuparia mountain ash, and a hybrida bastard service, on Dinas Bran; rubus chamaemorus or cloudberry, on the Berwyn hills. Among the antiquities are Cerig-y-Drauidion druid stones, Llanarmon barrows, Llansallan round table (so called), Capel Voelas pillar and Eliseg pillar, — one of the most ancient in Wales; British castles at Dinas Bran, Sychaint (O.Glyndwr's), Garthen Copp-y-Wylfa, Tommon-y-Rhodwydd, and Gresford, — norman at Denbigh and Ruthin; and Llan Egwest or Vale Crucis abbey, a fine ruin. Wrexham church is called one of the 7 wonders of Wales, and that of Llanrhaadr has a fine stained window; at Ysptyt Jevan the knights of St. John (Jevan) had a hospital; Gwytherin was the birthplace of St. Winifred, Llanferres of Davies the welsh lexicographer, Ruabon of Dr. Powell the antiquary; near Cefn Oyo cave Rich. II. was betrayed to Bolingbroke by the Percy. The principal seats are: Visct. Dungannon Brynkinallt, Lord Bagot Pool Ph., Ld. Dinorben Kinnel, Wynne, Bt. Wynnastay (where the hounds are kennelled), Cunliffe, Bt. Acton, Hon. F. West Ruthin Cast., Mrs. Allenson Llanerch, P. York Dyffryn Aled, Finch of Capel Voelas, Downward of Bathafarn, Wilding of Llanrhaadr, Jones of Llandysilio, Biddulph of Chirk Cast. (an old seat), S. Yorke of Erdag, Mrs. Egerton of Gresford, J. Williams of Gweryst, Salisbury of Gallt Fawon (where Sir H. Myddleton was born), J. Maddocks of Glangwern, Ablett of Llanbedr. Plas Newydd was the retreat of the two friends Lady E. Butler and Miss Ponsonby, near Llangollen on the Dee, — which with Newbridge, not far from it, and Llanrwst on the Conway, affords some fine scenery. Roads from Ruthin: (1) To Mold 7, thence to Hawarden 12, and Chester 18. (2) To Llandegla 6, Wrexham 15, Bangor Isced 20, Whitchurch 30. (3) To Llandegla 6, Vale Crucis and Llangollen 13, down the Dee to Wynnastay 18, Chirk Cast. 21, Oswestry 26, thence to Shrewsbury 44. (4) To Corwen 11, up the Dee to Bala 21. (5) To Carrigy-Drauidion 13 (or 20 from Llangollen through Corwen), Waterloo Bridge on the Conway 22 (thence down the river to Llanrwst 26, Conway 36), Capel Curig 28, under Snowdon to Bangor 43. (6) Down Vale of Clwyd to Denbigh 7 (thence to Llanrwst 24), St. Asaph 12, Rhyddlan 14, Abergele 20, along the coast under the mountains to Conway 30, and Bangor 42. About 15 m. of Chest. and Shrewsb. rail. goes by Palford and Wrexham to Chirk; and a branch canal of 16 m. from Llandysilio passes along the Dee to Trevor, then over the river by the great Pont-y-Cyrrylio aqueduct, and by another over the Cairng to the Ellesmere canal at Hordley.

* P. M. St. DENNISON par. (79) Isled hund. N. Denbigh. 201 m. from London, 30 W. of Chester, a sessions (alternately with Wrexham) and election town, a polling place and crown manor, is the vale of Clwyd, on a hill in Rhôs district, whence its old name Castell-caled-fryn-y-rhôs, or Dinbech, i.e. little castle, — was a lordship given by Edw. I. to Hen. Lacy earl of Lincoln, who found the place and castle, which, being held by Edw. IV. against the Lancastrians, and in 1645 for Ch. I. against Gen. Mytton, who took it after a 4 months' siege, was blown up at the Restoration; — has returned one member to parl. from Hen. VIII., — the limits, which are unaltered, containing the par. with parts of Llanrhaadr-y-Kimmerch and Henllan, — no. of electors (including Holt, Ruthin, Wrexham, contributory boroughs) 862, of 104. houses 3595; was chartered by Edw. I., and under the new act is governed by a mayor, 6 ald., 12 council, with the style of "ald., bailiffs, burgesses of boro' of D.," and revenue of 200l. Size of boro' 1½ m. every way round the mkt. cross, well cultivated, with limestone; pop. of united boroughs 15,888, — of boro' 5238, — of par. 3405, in a general trade, with some tanneries, — formerly shoe and glove making; houses 757, with 4 chapels, town hall (b. 1572 by Dudley earl of Leicester), co. infirmary, N. Wales lunatic asyl. (cost 27,000l.), 2 banks, savings bk., reading room, 2 cotton mills, free gram. school (56l.), Oldfield's boys' blue coat sch. (119l.), Dr. Williams's sch. Lloyd, of Foxhill the antiquary, a Salisbury, and Edwards the 'Cambrian Shakespeare'; — the service is at St. Hillary's or castle chapel; St. David Cur. — L, Rectory; church, b. 1833, in the park. At the Castle, to which Chas. I. fled after the battle of Rowton Moor, are part of a fine gateway with a figure of the founder, ruins of a chapel 170 ft. by 71, left unfinished by Dudley (Elizabeth's favourite), and traces of another which Leland saw, in whose time the place had but 80 householders. On the bowling-green, which has a very fine view, an Eisteddfod was held Sept. 1838 before the Duke of Sussex. The old town walls, with a gateway, are 1½ m. in circuit; a tower with a timbered roof is left of a carmelite priory founded by the Salisburys of Llewenni before 1289. Gwaenynog was visited by Johnson in company with Mrs. Piozzi. Gives title of earl to the Fieldings. Mkt. D. Wed. Sat. Fairs, Sat. before Palm Sund. 14 May, 28 June, 18 July, 25 Sept. 2nd Wed. S. of Belper the surface is level, with a red clay and well cultivated soil; from this it rises through the Low towards the High Peak in the NW., where Axedge, at the head of the Dove, is 1758 ft. high, Lord's Seat and Mam Tor 1751 ft., Kinder Scout about 1800 ft., and with Blacklow Stones, etc., at the Derwent's head, are on the ridge forming the backbone of England,—a region of barren moor, where thousands of sheep are pastured,—abrupt naked grit or limestone rocks, hollowed in caves and rich in mines, with many small streams and mooses in the valleys, which are subject to sudden storms and much rain, and the people to the goitre. The forests and woodlands, where wolves were once hunted, have disappeared under the peat bogs. All the E. border beyond Dronfield, Alfreton, Belper, to Dale abbey (where it was worked 1806), is coal, with clay, slate, and ironstone; from Ashborne and Duffield to Hope, and from the E. side of the Derwent to beyond the Dove, carboniferous limestone; S. of Derby, red sandstone or marl; between Uttoxeter and Derby, gritstone (for the cutlers) is found, and also in the middle from Belper upwards to the N. border, and all round to Chapel-le-Frith, is beds of great thickness, rising into bold crags near Hathersage, Glossop, etc. The mines employ 6784 hands, governed by their own peculiar laws; of whom 1461 are engaged in getting yearly 4500 tons of lead, which was worked by the Romans, and is found in the Peak, at Sheldon, Castleton, Matlock, Cromford, Wirksworth, etc. along with galena, barytes, and calamine; iron (30,000 tons, and 591 hands) near the coal at Butterley, Wingerworth, Chesterfield; coal (4496 hands) at Charlesworth, Wingfield, Packington, Shipley, Alfreton, etc.; limestone all over the Peak, Stoney Middleton, etc. turning into black and brown marbles at Ashford, Matlock, and Hopton,—grey at Moneyash, and bird's-eye at Wetton; gypsum, from the potteries, at Elvaston, Chellaston, Darley abbey,—with china-stone or chert at Matlock, pipe-clay at Bolsover, potters'-clay at Brampton, Heague, etc.; slate for roofing at Hayfield, Chisley Hill; black jack (zinc) with blue jobs, or fluor-spar, and pyrites at Castleton, along with mineral caoutchouc; quartz diamonds at Buxton; petroleum at Ashford, where a small sanaria was found; besides toadstone and large beds of ammonites, entrochi, and many other insect, vegetable, and shell fossils in the limestone and ironstone. The manufactures, employing 21,996 hands, are cotton, calico, and tape (9143 hands), at Cromford (where Arkwright built his first mill), Derby, Glossop, Belper, Whitfield, etc.; cotton hose (5786 hands) at Derby, Belper, Alfreton, etc. (in 1844, about 6800 frames were at work in more than 60 places—chiefly the above, with Codnor, Heanor, Horsley, Ilkeston, S. Wingfield,—silk hose being made in remote villages); silk at Derby, where the first english mill, by Lombe, stands; lace (2005 hands) at Derby, Edale (with thread), Melbourne; porcelain and spar works at Derby; nail (1001 hands), cutlery, and hardware on the York border, where grindstones, bones, etc. are made; pottery (772 hands), Chesterfield, Belper, Ilkeston, etc.; besides gloves, hats, shoes, woollens, paper, cast-iron goods. In '47 (a bad year) 11,602, 31, 110, 5144 persons were in the cotton, woollen, flax, silk mills, respectively.—Among the native plants on the Peak are, alchemilla vulgaris, or bear's foot, bryum, campanula latifolia throatwort, cardamine ladies' smock, empetrum nigrum crowberry, rubus idaeus raspberry bush, prenanthes muralis wild lettuce, cranberry, whortleberry, valerian, viola or pansy; much camomile is grown about Shirland, etc.—Agriculture backward, and many small farms, a few on lease. Large dairies along the Dove, about Ashborne, etc., whence good mild cheese (800 cwt. per cow yearly), with butter made from the whey, and hogs, are sent to market; cattle of the Staffordsh. breed, with many crosses; chief crops, wheat and barley (for the Burton ale breweries) in the S., and oats (for consumption) in the Peak, with potatoes, which sometimes produce 600 bush. per acre; stock of sheep 360,000, chiefly Leicester, and yielding 9000 woolpacks—pastured on the unclosed parts of the Peak,—where many asses and good active black horses are bred for service.—Rivers are, Derwent, Dove (which passes Reynard's Hall, Thorp Cloud, and other fine spots), Wye (passing Monsal dale), Erewash, Rother, Goyt, Trent, etc.; there are warm springs (temp. about 68°) in the shale and limestone at Matlock (a fine spot), Buxton, Bakewell, watering-places,—sulphur at Kedleston, Ilkeston, and Heage (where the people drink it for small beer),—chalybeate at Quarndon, Chesterfield; those in limestone are petrifying, and the moors have in some parts a petrifying and tanning quality.—Among the antiquities are, druid circles and barrows at Arbor-low (low, a hill), and Stanton moor, with some cromlechs near the latter and at Hathersage; barrows at Monast dale and Winster; castles at Melandra (roman), Mackworth, Castleton in the Peak (the Peverels), Codnor (the Greys); priories at Gresleys and Repton (seat of the merican kings), Yea-veley preceptory, and Dale and Beauchief abbeys,—out of about 20 various religious foundations; old houses at S. Wingfield, and Haddon Hall (which belonged to Vernon, 'king of the Peak'), both in ruins. Beresford Hall, on the Dove, was Cotton's seat, where his "good father," Isaac Walton, visited him. Brindley was born at Tunstead, and Strutt, the inventor of ribbed stockings, at Normanton; Eyam was the vicarage of the good and devoted Mompesson, and at a house near Whittington, the Duke of Devonshire and others concerted the Revolution. The Devil's cavern 2700 ft. long, Eldon Hole 180 ft. deep, Poole's Hole, Mam Tor, or the Shivering mountn. (a crumbling micaceous peak 1000 ft. above the base, with a trench about it), the intermittent spring near Chapel-le-Frith, two hot and cold springs at Buxton, only 12 ft. apart, and Chatsworth, constitute the "seven wonders of the Peak." Rykniel St. went from Branston (Trivonam, on Via Devana), past Lit. Chester (Derwentum), Pentrich, and Chesterfield (Lutodorum) to Temple Brough (ad Fines); from Lit. Chester, Long Lane goes to Chesterton, and another roman way to Manchester through Buxton,—whence there was a branch to Brough, and from that to Melandra cast. (a station). (exclusively), — with 1262 teachers and 14,444 child., and 365 in union with the National Soc. had 24,879 child. and total grants of 5734L. Offenders in '48, 924 (or 806 av. of 5 yrs.), of whom 685 were convicted, 226 were females, 88 under 15 yrs. of age, 295 could not read or write. Following the sup. Registry districts of '45 (total pop. 537,270 + 8742), the 'births' were 16,105, of whom 8861 were females, 879, or 5·5 per cent., illegit.; 'deaths' 10,165, or 1 in 53, — the all-England av. being 46; 'marriages' 4757 (at church 4165), of which 3312 persons, or 34·7 per cent., signed with marks. The surface is hilly and well wooded, and in many parts like a garden. To the SW. is Dartmoor, a rugged granite plain 1500 to 1800 ft. high (where the wolf was hunted till Elizabeth's time), with pasture for sheep, — including the 'Forest' which belongs to duchy of Cornwall, with swamps and peatwood, — and several tors scattered about, as Cawsorn beacon (1792 ft. the highest), Dart head, near which 7 or 8 rivers rise, Erme head (1131 ft.) where 4 more rise, Rippon tor 1549 ft., Brent tor and its church, Lydford, a very wild part, Crockern tor, where the stannary courts were held. Other streams rise on the NE. at Blackdown, where chert is quarried (880 ft.), and in the N. at Exmoor (about 1000 ft.); here and along the S. coast, old red sandstone with clay and grauwacke slate are found; from Torbay N., through the vale of Ex, to Tiverton, and to the W. past Crediton and Hatherleigh, new red and keuper sandstones; a broad strip of carboniferous limestone runs from Barnstaple bay to past Bampton, and round the N. and W. side of Dartmoor; all the rest in the middle part is millstone grit with culm and traces of poor coal; chlorite and mica slate are seen at the Start and Bolt hd. A little copper, tin, iron, etc. is still worked — the mines employing 1411 hands, and the old stannary towns being Plympton, Ashburton, Tavistock, or Lydford, and Chagford; lead (with silver) is found at Combe Martin and Beer Ferris, where fluor spar is procured; manganese from Huxham to Upton Pyne and Newton St. Cyres; antimony at Chudleigh, in the limestone, and S. Bovey, where also traces of basalt appear, and chert and a bed of lignite coal (chiefly pinewood) are quarried; cobalt at Sandford, and fossil bacon (?) at Cruwys Morchard. Granite or moorstone (some red) abounds on Dartmoor, and is more modern than the neighbouring coal; limestone at Salcombe, Torquay, Branscombe, Chudleigh, etc., — with marble at Marychurch, Bickeston, Denbury, Babbicombe, Plymouth, S. Molton (black), the S. Hams (veined); gypsum at Plymo' and Salcombe Regis, and pipe clay (25 to 30,000 tons) at Wear Gifford, Merton, Petrockstow, King's Teignton (potter's clay here), Fremington, etc. Slate is quarried at Slapton, Alwington, Plympton St. Mary, Lamerton, Tavistock, — schistose for paving and tombs at Salcombe, Drews Teignton, etc.; basalt, quartz, flint, etc. in various parts. Chief rivers, in which salmon, plaice, trout are caught, are Taw (with its branch the Moule), Torridge, Dart (rising in Cranmere pool), Teign, Tamar (anc. Tamarus), Ex (Iscu, with Barle, Loman, Creedy, Culm for branches), Tavy, Plym, Yealm, Erme, Avon, Otter, Axe (Alaenus), Lyn, etc.; chalybeate springs at Cleaves, Bellammarsh Brook, Hampton, Islington, Brixham (intermitted). Manufactures, employing nearly 7000 hands, are, woollen and serge (2448 at Cullumpton, Exeter, Moreton, Hampstead, etc., — lace (1821) Honiton, Bradninch, Tiverton, — gloves (763), Torrington, — cotton (398), Exeter, — silk (855), — carpets at Axminster, — shoes at Ashburton, — earthenware at Bideford; in '47 (a bad year), 1482, 110, 51, 899 persons were employed in the woollen, worsted, flax, silk mills, respectively. Oysters, herrings, and other fish, are caught on the coast; and white ale is made at Kingsbridge, Modbury, and Dodbrooke. Climate, soft but moist, especially about the S. Hams (below Dartmoor), where the myrtle and other exotics grow in the air; about 4-5ths of the available soil is grass land, — and butter (360 lbs. yearly per cow), clotted cream, house lamb, are sent to market. The best orchards, yielding about 3½ hhd. of cider per acre, are round Exeter, at Doddiscombeleigh, Chudleigh to Totness, and Newton Bushel, the red streak apple being the favourite; sweet cider is made at Staverton. In the red loamy soil of the vale of Exeter (200 sq. mls.), and the S. Hams (250 sq. mls.), much wheat (16 to 20 or 25 bush. per acre), barley (35 to 50 bush.), oats, beans, turnips, potatoes, are grown; sod-burning, or 'Devonshiring,' is still practised in W. Devon, and other parts to restore the fruitfulness of the soil. Stock of good native moor sheep 630,000, yielding 15,500 wool-packs; the N. Devon. cattle, a good breed also, are used to labour instead of the horse. Leases run from 6 to 10 years; farm buildings, called 'bartons,' are good and numerous, the farms being mostly 100 to 200 acres; cottages are colled (red earth mixed with straw), and last long; and the enclosures are mounds planted with coppice wood, as oak, beech, ash, etc., which contribute so much to the beauty of the country. Some of the native plants are, asparagus officinalis, many fuci, gentiana filiformis marsh centaury, liverwort, flax, myrica gale dutch myrtle, pinguicula villosa cornish butterwort, rubia perigrina wild madder, red valerian, etc. Among the antiquities are Grimspond, a British town; cairns at Haldon Hill; logan stones at Withecombe and Drew's (or Druid's) Teignton, where are cromlechs, circles, etc.; camps at Hembury fort (roman) and Woodbury cast.; castles at Compton and Okehampton (the Courtenays'), Plympton, and Tiverton (the Rivers', first earls of Devon), Berry Pomeroy (the Seymours'), and Lydford, once the stannary prison; abbeys at Tavistock and Ford (a small part). At Linton, is the 'Valley of Stones' 1 m. long; and there are fine spots at Chudleigh rock, and Ivybridge. Bodley was born at Exeter, Reynolds at Plympton, Drake at Tavistock, Gay at Barnstaple, Marlborough at Ashe near Axminster, Raleigh at Hayes Farm, and at Bideford his friend the valiant Sir R. Grenville, who was mortally wounded in a sea fight of 18 hours, in which he alone 15 times repulsed the Spaniard with his 58 sail. Downs run past Shaftesbury, Blandford, Cerne Abbas (part), Beaminster, to Axminster, rising 934 ft. at Pilsledon Pen; from Beaminster and Bridport, the S. Downs follow the coast by Dorchester, to Swanage bay in Purbeck, rising 813 ft. at Black down and 669 at Swyre hill, near Kimmeridge. Between these ridges in the 'trough of Poole' flow the Frome and Piddle on a chalky bottom, with much good meadow land, which is carefully flooded for spring food, in the upper part of their course; but lower down and S. of Bere Regis, there is much waste, chiefly iron sand, with potter's, pipe, and brick clay, and brown, or lignite, underneath. Beyond the Downs, all round from Shaftesbury to Corfe Castle, except about Lulworth, is a strip of green sand; beyond this on N. Downs, Sturminster, etc., is another of Oxford clay, which appears also at Weymouth; and beyond these, in the N. and W. and SW., is oolite, of which Portland and Purbeck stone is a variety. At the head of the Stour is the vale of Blackmoor, once forest, but now fine pasture land. Stock of sheep from 6 to 700,000, chiefly short-woolled, of the Down and Southdown breeds, crossed by the Leicester, etc., and famous for producing early or house lamb; wool-packs 10,000. A small breed is found in Portland and Purbeck, weighing 8 lbs. the qr., equal to the Bagshot or Welsh. The dairies furnish Dorset butter, which being washed is frequently sold for fresh,—and streaked skim cheese, called 'double' Dorset, for home consumption. Chief crops, barley (30 bush. per acre) for malting and the ale brewing, corn (18 to 22 bush.), potatoes, beans; sainfoin and turnips in the chalk. In the sandy loam about Bridport and Beaminster, much flax is grown, yielding 6 to 900 lbs. an acre, for linseed oil and oil-cake,—and hemp, yielding 400 to 800 lbs. for rope and sail makers. Leases are yearly, or run 10 to 20 yrs.; farms and estates large; draining is neglected; agriculture, though backward, is improving. Labourers earn from 8*s.* to 10*s.* a week, and their condition is bad. Land lets from 30 to 45*s.* on the average. Beech is grown on the hills, and there are remains of forest on the E., near Cranborne, etc. The manufactures are—flax, hemp, thread, rope, twine, sail-cloth, canvas (employing 887 hands), at Bridport, etc., where all the cordage of the navy was made in Hen. VIII.'s time; woollens, or white baize (319), Sturminster, Lyme, and Shaftesbury,—where, and at Blandford (once the seat of bone lace), shirt buttons are made (205); silk (159 spinners) at Sherborne, etc.; gloves (232) at Cerne Abbas; worsted stockings at Wareham, Wimborne, etc. In '47 (a bad year) 89,589, 442 persons were employed in the woollen, flax, and silk mills respectively. Mackerel and herring fisheries at Abbotsbury, Weymouth. Good marble is worked at Burton, near Marnhull. Portland stone, in beds 100 ft. thick, and giving blocks as much as 8 tons weight, was first used by Jas. I. at Whitehall, and afterwards by Smeaton on the Eddystone; coal stone, shells, etc. are also found. Isle of Purbeck (which is only a peninsula) affords, at Downshay, coloured marble, once used in churches; paving and roofing stones at Swanage in beds 290 ft. thick, with potter's clay near Corfe Castle, and many fossil fish shells. At Kimmeridge the limestone or chert is 600 to 700 ft. thick, with fossil or bituminous coal. At Charmouth the inflammable cliffs abound with pyrites; and in the blue lias of Lyme, many saurians and fossils have been discovered. The smaller rivers are, the Piddle or Trent, Ivel, Cerne, Birt or Brit; and there are mineral springs at Sherborne, Chilcombe, Nottingham, etc. Among the antiquities are, the Agglestone; and the Pokeswell, Portisham, Winterbourne druid circles; british station at Baddbury Rings, Hamildon and Hod hills near Blandford, Maiden Castle near Dorchester, Nine-barrow down 642 ft. high, Deverel barrow, of which a description has been published; roman, at Dorchester, or Durnovaria, Gussage Cowdown, or Vindoladia, with many barrows, where the Britons had a seat, Eggerdon hill, Poundbury, Abbotsbury, where is St. Catherine's curious old church, Trendle hill, on which a figure 180 ft. high is cut, Dewlish, Weatherbury near Bere Regis, and near Maiden Newton by the Frome, where a fine pavement was found 1794. Of about 40 abbeys, priories, hospitals, etc. there are remains of abbeys at Bindon, Cerne (a gateway), and Sherborne, which has an old hospital and a fine cathedral church, once the seat of a bishop, and had vineyards at 'Domesty.'—also of Cranborne priory, and Shaftesbury nunnery; castle ruins at Portland (called Bow and Arrow), Brownsea, and Corfe, where Edw. the martyr was killed by his stepmother Elfrida, and famous in the civil war for its defence by Lady Bankes; at Wimborne is a large church or minster, Swanwich is one of the oldest in England, and Stalbridge has an ancient cross, 30 ft. high.—The Danes, in their invasions of this coast, had several battles with the Saxons,—at Charmouth in 833, Wareham, with Alfred 876, Dorchester 1002; off Portland, 1588, the English routed the Armada, and 1653, Blake beat Van Tromp; the Duke of Monmouth landed at Lyme Regis, and was taken after the battle of Sedgemoor at Shag's Heath near Horton. Bp. Stillingfleet was born at Cranborne; Mat. Prior at Wimborne; Coram, who established the Foundling Hosp., at Lyme; Hussey, an artist who drew by the proportions of the musical scale, at Marnhull; Swyre was the rectory of Hutchins the co. historian. There is, or was, a decoy and swannery at the top of the Fleet. Some of the native plants are, asparagus officinalis, euphorbia portlandica a sponge, lavatera arborea a mallow, salsola frutescens a glasswort, and some fuci, all in Portland; cyperus longus, Purbeck; flax, in corn fields, and sandy pastures; myrica gale dutch myrtle, Wareham; pastorina maritima sea-weed, Poole; vicia, or vetch, Weymouth.—Among the seats, etc. are, Earl Digby Sherborne Cast., where Raleigh lived, Duke of Buckingham Eastbury Pk., on site of Bubb Doddington's large house, Marq.
